EDITOR'S NOTE

It's A Fright-Fest

Have you noticed how stores started even earlier this year with the Halloween décor, costumes and candy? The ghoulish fun was already out midsummer, and massive amounts of merchandise keep crowding store shelves. Halloween has certainly crept earlier into our calendars and is getting more high-profile attention in the entertainment world as well; just look at all the box office titles and then take a peek inside this issue for what's going on in the TV world. Travel Channel resurrects its Halloween event "Ghostober" with 31 days of the network's most wicked and blood-curdling premieres. AMC brings back its annual FearFest with marathons of favorites like Halloween, Friday the 13th, Stephen King and Final Destination, as well as a Leprechaun-a-thon and Creature Feature Weekend. TCM has blocked Thursdays for horror classics, celebrates Godzilla as the Monster of the Month on Fridays, and reserves Oct. 30-31 for mysteries and horror. Inside we highlight all of the scares with a special skull icon in the Movies and Specials sections. Plus, check out our roundup on some of the new scary specials on pages 12-13.

We do know Halloween isn't for everyone, so we've packed this issue with insights on plenty of AMAZING new programs including Lifetime's Patsy & Loretta, USA Network's Treadstone, TLC's Taken at Birth, TBS' The Misery Index and more.

Happy Viewing!

What TV Celebrity Have You Met?

In 1973 I met Liberace, who signed an autograph for my grandmother, who was a great fan. He even asked for her name when signing. My grandmother loved it! – Sara

Dr. Noah Drake, also known as Rick Springfield! My family and I saw him and his full band in concert. They were AWESOME! That is almost but not quite meeting Rick. – Clemens

QUESTION OF THE MONTH: Who do you think is the creepiest character (not actor) on TV today?

Email us at dishletters@ntvbmedia.com

Rough Language On "Yellowstone"

Love your magazine, a treasure trove of info related to TV! We have been watching Yellowstone on the Paramount Network – interesting story with Kevin Costner – but no more!! We were surprised when we watched the first show at the EXCESSIVE use of the F-word. So when watching the second show, we counted 16 times this unnecessary word was used! But, the third show was the real LOSER, when the F-word was used 33 TIMES!! (And we may have even missed some because they were so out of control!!) And this does not include the other unnecessary trash talk. We have lost all interest in the show because it has become such a garbage can and the foul language has overtaken the storyline. – Sam and D

What's That Patch?

I hope you can help me before I go crazy. On the program Chicago P.D.,

The Terror:
Infamy

they have a patch on their uniforms that is white with blue stripes on the top and bottom. I am trying to figure out what it represents. They have a flag of the same thing hanging on a wall. I know it is not a state flag. Could you please give me some insight as to what this is, please? – Roy

We think we know what you're talking about, Roy. You left out the most important descriptive part – the four red stars in between the blue stripes on the top and bottom. This is the Chicago city flag.

"The Terror: Infamy"

I am 85 and looked forward to the AMC show The Terror: Infamy, which began in August. The reason is my father worked for Southern California Gas Company during the time of the "Camps." One of his jobs was to visit the homes occupied by the people targeted for internment, read the gas meter and present a closing bill to the occupier. He was instructed to ask for payment. The interesting part of this story is that not one person refused to pay. EVERYONE paid their bill. He then watched as they climbed onto the truck. My father was truly impressed by the people, but not really against the reason, because of what was not known at the beginning of the war. – Bob

Getting The Magazine Earlier? Program Updates?

I have been a subscriber to your magazine for a long time. There are two things that I would love to know. First, can I get it earlier? I like to page through and plan my viewing. Second, why do the programs you list in the magazine sometimes not match what is on TV? – Dave

Our magazine goes to print roughly two weeks prior to the start of the month, and sometimes networks make programming updates after we print. As for getting the magazine earlier, have you thought about subscribing to our VIP digital edition to complement your print guide? See the ad on the back cover of this guide for more information.

A WRESTLING LEGEND

Chris Jericho Says AEW Is “Not Competition; We’re An Alternative.” By Barb Oates

For the first time in years, a new global wrestling league is entering the ring. All Elite Wrestling (AEW) will make its weekly live primetime debut on TNT Wednesdays beginning Oct. 2, bringing with it a world-class roster that includes The Young Bucks (Matt and Nick Jackson), Cody and Brandi Rhodes, Kenny Omega, Nyla Rose, Hangman Page, and the legendary Chris Jericho. We caught up with the multitalented Jericho between his cross-country travels for wrestling, and as lead vocalist of the rock band Fozzy, to get his insights on his move to AEW.

Here the self-described David Bowie of wrestling sets us straight on the AEW.

AEW vs. WWE. “We’re not competition; we’re an alternative to what the WWE is.”

Sports Entertainment vs. Pro Wrestling. “To me, wrestling is entertainment. It’s show business. And the best way to get the most out of a performer is to let that performer have the creativity that they need to grow.”

Why Creative Freedom Is Key.

“We don’t want to have writers and people telling you what to say and what to do because nobody knows better what to say and what to do than the performers themselves. That’s kind of the first thing that appealed to me.”

Making a Good Show. “This isn’t a movie where there’s a scriptwriter and you hire actors to play roles. In wrestling, the genius of it is that the best characters are real personas just turned up to the nth degree.”

The Cool Factor. “I think that’s one thing that AEW definitely has right now is we are cool. And when you’re cool, that’s when people want to be involved with it. That’s when the word of mouth travels as to, ‘What’s going on?’ ‘Well, there’s something really cool happening.’ ‘Really? I want to be a part of that.’ And we’re seeing that quite often in most cases since this was all announced.”

5 Questions

With KAL PENN
Of NBC's "Sunnyside" By Ryan A. Berenz

Yes, Kal Penn played Kumar in 2004's Harold & Kumar Go to White Castle and its several sequels. He's had steady screen work since (House, How I Met Your Mother, Designated Survivor) and even took a sabbatical from acting from 2009-11 to work in the White House Office of Public Engagement. "Most of the stuff that I was doing was not particularly sexy, which is probably why you didn't hear about it for the two and a half years that I was working in D.C.," Penn says. You've probably heard about Penn's starring role in the new NBC sitcom Sunnyside (Thursdays), playing a disgraced former New York City councilman. Penn accepted the role of answering our "5 Questions."

1 What's your strangest fan encounter?

I think it's because I'm probably best known for playing a stoner that people are generally happy when they approach me. Probably just people offering me weed on the street, which is bizarre, but if that's my biggest job hazard, then so be it.

2 Can you tell us about a time that you were starstruck?

I met Kip Thorne, who is a Nobel-winning astrophysicist, when I was doing an episode of The Big Bang Theory a couple months ago. ... This dude rolls up to the Warner Bros. lot in an old Volvo with a cowboy hat, and he's like the nicest guy. I remember really wanting to show him my tattoos. "Look! I have astronomy tattoos!" He says, "Oh, that's great." And as soon as he said that, the thought that popped into my head was, "Oh, my God. I just asked you the equivalent of 'How many White Castle burgers did you have yesterday?'"

3 What's your favorite sports team?

I'll go with my UCLA Bruins.

4 What is a movie that you can watch over and over again?

The Goonies. A lot of those hold up. Even the original Karate Kid holds up.

5 What's a job you had before you got into acting?

There were many, many jobs, but I'll go with the one I liked the least, which was telemarketing. It was like a couple of desks lined up in a strip mall in New Jersey. This was when I was saving money to move to L.A. to be an actor. I thought to myself, "This will be an amazing job because I love screwing with telemarketers when they bother us at dinner! I bet it's going to be like an acting exercise, like I can be whoever I want! I'll just be Phil from Bayonne, N.J.!" No, it doesn't really work that way, and it's a terrible job.

They're Back, Baby!:

Recently Renewed Shows

FX has renewed Donald Glover's acclaimed comedy Atlanta for Season 4, which will begin production next spring along with the previously announced Season 3. Also on FX, John Singleton's drama Snowfall will be back for Season 4 in 2020. ... TNT's hit drama Animal Kingdom has been renewed for Season 5. Can it continue to succeed following the shocking Season 4 departure of star Ellen Barkin? ... Like the series from which it is spun off, Fear the Walking Dead may never die — AMC has renewed the series for a sixth season to debut next year. AMC is also bringing back its new horror series NOS4A2 for a second season.

IN THE WORKS

NEW FROM NETFLIX

Netflix has ordered an adult animated show called 1 Agent King, which follows Elvis Presley as he joins a secret government spy program while still continuing his day job in rock 'n' roll.

Priscilla Presley and John Eddie are co-creators and executive producers, and designer John Varvatos will custom design the character's wardrobe for the show. ... Christian Serratos – currently playing Rosita on The Walking Dead – is in negotiations to play the late Tejano singer Selena Quintanilla in Netflix's scripted 5 Selena: The Series. The show is described as a “coming-of-age story” that focuses on Selena's rise to stardom as she became one of the most beloved Mexican-American entertainers.

CASTING NEWS

His show Arrow might be ending, but star 2 Stephen Amell has already lined up his next role in Starz's new pro-wrestling drama Heels. Amell will star as the owner of a small wrestling association, a villain in the ring but a husband and father outside of it, looking to build his business into an empire. Starz has greenlit eight episodes. ... Showtime's upcoming series 3 Your Honor has added 3 Carmen Ejogo (True Detective) and Isiah Whitlock Jr. (The Wire) as series regulars, joining star Bryan Cranston.

The series follows a respected New Orleans judge (Cranston) whose son is involved in a hit-and-run, leading to a dark game of deceit and lies.

COMING SOON TO DISH

AMC has ordered a three-part drama based on the story of the British couple who attempted to cheat on Who Wants to Be a Millionaire? 4 Quiz will star 4 Matthew Macfadyen (Succession) and Sian Clifford (Fleabag) as the couple, who famously, along with an accomplice, coughed to each other to indicate correct answers. ... FX has acquired the short story The Bridgewater Triangle for adaptation into a series from showrunner Noah Hawley (Legion). The story, written by Brian Miller, looks at an area of well-documented supernatural activity in southeastern Massachusetts that covers 17 small towns. When a massive paranormal event hits these communities, three estranged siblings must survive and come together as the only ones who can stop it.

HELLO AND GOODBYE

5 Sarah Michelle Gellar is eyeing a return to TV – she's attached as a lead and executive producer of a new FOX show called Other People's Houses, which would reunite her with the creators of her former CW show, Ringer. The show is a suburban dramedy described as “somewhere between Big Little Lies and Catastrophe.” ... Bethenny Frankel will not be returning for the upcoming 12th season of the reality show The Real Housewives of New York. Frankel has been on the show since it began, but exited in 2010 before returning in 2015. She recently signed a deal with MGM Television and Mark Burnett to produce unscripted TV projects.

YANKED!: Recently Canceled Shows

A&E's docuseries Born This Way will end with a one-hour series finale special in December. ... Ashton Kutcher's The Ranch will get roped in by Netflix after the final Season 4 episodes air sometime in 2020. ... Netflix issued an update for Glitch. The Australian sci-fi drama won't be resurrected for Season 4. ... Syfy blew up Krypton and scrapped plans for the Lobo spinoff that was in development.

Terrifying TV

October 2019

OnDISH Magazine

With the box office scaring the bejesus out of viewers these days with films like IT Chapter Two, Haunt and Villains, it's only fitting that TV also taps into our fears and phobias to offer a bounty of bloodshed and horror to keep us safely (or not?) locked inside our homes this month. Here's a brief rundown of what to look out for.

The Drakelow Tunnels in Kidderminster, England

WHERE ARE THE MOST TERRIFYING PLACES EVER?

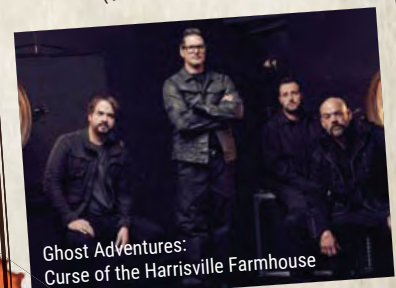

Travel Channel is going all out with spooky programming in its monthlong "Ghostober" Halloween event, with scary new shows, specials and season premieres airing each night throughout October (see lineup to right). Things kick off Oct. 1 with the new six-episode series Most Terrifying Places, which looks at some horrifying haunts around the world. Bodmin Jail in Cornwall, England, is one of them. This prison dates back 240 years and is the place where over 50 people were executed, including Selina Wadge, an impoverished, 28-year-old mother of two illegitimate sons who was hanged for murdering one of her children in the late 1800s. To this day, her ghost still haunts the prison, which reports that she tries to reach out to small children and instill feelings of guilt and remorse in pregnant women. Elsewhere in the world, many people believe that Lake Shawnee Amusement Park in West Virginia is sitting on a cursed piece of land that has already claimed the lives of many children. In 1783, a violent turf war between a Native American tribe and a European family resulted in the deaths of numerous people. In the 1920s, the land was turned into an amusement park, but death followed as several children fell victim. The park was shut down in 1966 and its structures were left to rust; rotted swings still serve as a home to childlike ghosts. The Drakelow Tunnels in Kidderminster, England, have gained the reputation of being one of the world's most active hauntings, largely due to the countless sightings of shadow figures, apparitions and strange dark entities after a tunnel collapsed in 1941 and buried three men alive.

Destination Fear

Ghost Adventures: Curse of the Harrisville Farmhouse

John Wayne Gacy

Serial Killers: Does Their Evil Still Linger?

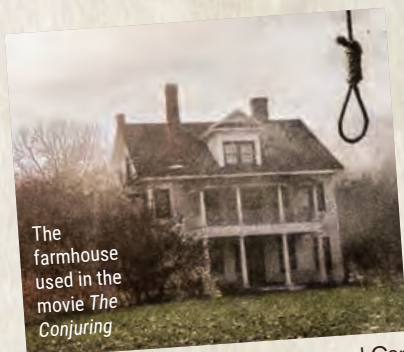

For a six-year stretch, John Wayne Gacy lured young boys and men to his home in Cook County, Ill., where he strangled and/or asphyxiated them – killing at least 33. Gacy was sentenced to death on March 13, 1980, but spent 14 years on death row before his execution in 1994. Herman Mudgett, better known as H.H. Holmes, is said to be one of America's first serial killers. Holmes began his reign of terror when he moved to Chicago in 1885 and constructed his infamous murder castle. This was a multi-floor horror house with trapdoors, secret passageways, hidden closets, greased shafts leading directly to the cellar and a human-sized kiln. In the entertainment world, Holmes was one of the subjects in American Horror Story: Hotel and in the upcoming Martin Scorsese and Leonardo DiCaprio Hulu series The Devil in the White City. Gacy's prison cell and Holmes' murder house are just some of the locations visited in Travel Channel's four-part miniseries Ghost Adventures: Serial Killer Spirits (Oct. 5). The Ghost Adventures team seeks to document whether malicious energy has been left behind by these sadistic killers as they explore their former habitats. "I've investigated a lot of places, but these locations are absolutely terrifying on a whole other level," said Zak Bagans, one of the team members of Ghost Adventures. "To walk in the same footsteps as these serial killers, where some of the most notorious acts of evil were committed – it severely affects you. The residual energy alone is palpable."

Cameras Go Inside The Real "Conjuring" Home

You wouldn't catch us trying this one. The Ghost Adventures team is also behind a two-hour Halloween special, Ghost Adventures: Curse of the Harrisville Farmhouse, on Oct. 31, where they go to Rhode Island for an unforgettable lockdown inside the real-life home that inspired the iconic horror film The Conjuring. The crew investigates the home of Roger and Carolyn Perron and their five daughters, who were terrorized by a demonic presence, including the spirit of Bathsheba, who allegedly took over Carolyn's body. The family worked with supernatural investigators Ed and Lorraine Warren (who also handled the 1970 case of the Annabelle doll) to rid the home of evil. "[This] has been a dream of mine to investigate for years, and I can't believe it's finally happening," host Zak Bagans says. "It's beyond legendary. I can't wait for viewers to experience this terrifying adventure with us."

The farmhouse used in the movie The Conjuring

Sweet Springs Sanitarium

America's Most Haunted Abandoned Buildings

Brushy Mountain Penitentiary's website claims that a visit there "will be an experience like no other" as it will surprise and terrify you. The website also says "visitors have been touched, shoved, scratched and even growled at." Brushy and West Virginia's Sweet Springs Sanitarium are just some of the stops in Travel Channel's new Destination Fear (beginning Oct. 26) – a frightening cross-country road trip to America's most haunted abandoned asylums, sanitariums, prisons and more. Ghost Adventures' Dakota Laden, his sister Chelsea and best friend Tanner plan to face fear head-on in a terrifying sleepover and psychological experiment like no other.

Where To Find Some Creepy Classics

"Black Magic" (Oct. 10): Curse of the Demon and The Seventh Victim

"Ghost Stories" (Oct. 17): The Haunting, The Fog and Poltergeist

"The Undead" (Oct. 24): Plague of the Zombies and Night of the Living Dead

"Horror Double Features" (Oct. 31): House of Wax, Bride of Frankenstein, The Devil-Doll, and The Pit and the Pendulum

TREADSTONE

Jason Bourne Fans — We've Got A Series For You. By Jim Halterman

The first thing to know about this international action drama, inspired by Robert Ludlum's novels, is, yes, it's within "the same world [where] Jason Bourne exists," says executive producer Ben Smith. The second thing: "Treadstone is its own complete story," Smith adds, and Matt Damon, who played the rogue agent in four movies, doesn't appear. Fans of the franchise will learn the origins of the CIA's black ops organization after highly skilled sleeper agents — like Doug McKenna (Sense8's Brian J. Smith), who's been working on an oil rig in the Arctic Ocean — are "woken" under Treadstone's control to perform various missions. McKenna is just one of the highly trained human weapons we meet in the present day. In a 1973 timeline, John Randolph Bentley (Jeremy Irvine, pictured above right) is another who we meet at the height of the Cold War.

Treadstone
USA
Network,
Tuesdays
beginning
Oct. 15

"He's been recruited by the CIA as an asset working behind the Iron Curtain in East Berlin," Irvine shares. "When we first see him, we find him captured by the Russians, [who] have been working on a mind control program that ultimately leads to the Treadstone program. Bentley's been sent there to gather intelligence, but ends up becoming a subject himself."

Much of the series is similar to the Bourne films in that there is an ongoing blurred line on who is good and who is bad, which even the characters wrestle to understand.

"My character's purpose is first to escape the Russians and be sent back to the CIA," Irvine explains. "But has he been turned by the Russians? Is he now a Russian agent working for them? And if he is, does he even know it?"

The series is filled with incredibly ambitious action sequences that follow agents around the globe. (The series filmed in Paris, London, Budapest, Berlin, Greece and Amsterdam.)

"I think all the other actors have filmed in amazing locations like Colombia in the rainforest and Mykonos in Greece, big fancy villas, the Arctic Circle, Hong Kong, Ghana in Africa. I, however, have filmed solely in Budapest for the last 10 months," Irvine laughs. "So today, for example, I know one of the actresses is filming in an enormous villa on the beach in Mykonos. I was filming deep, deep underground in a cave system underneath Budapest, which was very cold, and very, very damp. Not glamorous but very cool either way."

But with every character comes a different narrative. "And a reason they're doing what they're doing, with varying moral compasses," adds Smith.

And who is Treadstone's puppet master pulling the strings? Smith teases: "That's the question!"

IN THE MOVIES: CATCHING UP ON "BOURNE"

The Bourne Identity (2002)

A man (Matt Damon) found near death with no memory adopts the name "Jason Bourne" and seeks his true identity.

The Bourne Supremacy (2004)

After learning that he is a trained assassin, Bourne (Damon) is framed for a crime.

The Bourne Ultimatum (2007)

Operation Blackbriar — an upgrade of the Treadstone program — begins a new hunt for Bourne (Damon), thinking he is out for revenge.

The Bourne Legacy (2012)

Aaron Cross (Jeremy Renner), part of another black ops program, finds himself hunted after that program is disbanded.

Jason Bourne (2016)

Nicky Parsons (Julia Stiles), gains access to sensitive CIA files and is able to fill in the blanks of Bourne's past for him.

Patsy & Loretta

Compelling
Biopic Traces
The Friendship
Of Two Country
Music Legends.

By Jeff Pfeiffer

“I have to brag here,” beamed A+E Networks programming president Rob Sharenow at a recent press conference for Lifetime’s original film Patsy & Loretta. “I’m told that Loretta Lynn herself has seen the movie and loved it.”

With a seal of approval like that, you don’t necessarily need our raves about this enjoyable and emotional biopic, but we’ll echo Lynn’s sentiment anyway. This film from director Callie Khouri (creator of the series Nashville) and writer Angelina Burnett is moving and captivating from the start as it chronicles the short but impactful friendship between country music legends Patsy Cline (Megan Hilty, Smash, The Good Wife) and Loretta Lynn (Broadway star Jessie Mueller), and is one of the more memorable Lifetime movies we’ve seen in a while.

An effective combination of real-life drama with some fanciful elements here and there, the film re-creates and more fully delves into the events behind how, despite their differences, Cline befriended and influenced Lynn, eventually helping her become a star in her own right – an act that Lynn herself would pay forward as she later befriended and guided other women in the business.

Ultimately, Patsy and Loretta’s friendship was brief – cut tragically short when Cline perished in a plane crash at the age of 30 – but it clearly was a heartfelt one, and the film details just how close the friends were.

Hilty and Mueller are both superb as these women, and they instantly draw the viewer in as the music icons. Hilty captures Cline’s interesting mix of strength, brashness, wit and a sensitivity perhaps only fully seen by family and friends like Lynn, while Mueller effectively portrays Lynn’s growth from reticence into confidence once she is in Cline’s orbit.

This friendship between the two is a nice counterpoint to Hilty’s breakout TV project, the drama Smash (2012-13), which featured two women competing with one another.

“While I am incredibly grateful for Smash,” Hilty offered, “and everything that came with that show – I miss it every day – it is a breath of fresh air to work on something that shows the wonderful aspects of female friendship. ... And I feel like [that’s] so rarely done, and I’m so proud to be a part of something now that is showcasing that women don’t have to be at war with each other to be interesting.”

“I didn’t know about their friendship,” said Mueller. “I guess I just sort of assumed – I mean, it makes sense that they would’ve known each other, but I didn’t know – because I feel like in the public eye, I feel like we know about each lady and each of their careers. You know, there have been films made about each woman’s career, but what attracted me to the film was the fact that it was really about the friendship.”

Not only are Hilty and Mueller’s acting and appearance as the artists gripping and pretty spot-on, but, as you would expect from these accomplished singers, they also do justice to a few of Patsy and Loretta’s famous songs, like Lynn’s “I’m a Honky Tonk Girl” and “This Haunted House,” and Cline’s “I Fall to Pieces” and “Crazy.” Both women were thrilled at the chance to perform these memorable tunes.

“Thankfully, there’s a lot of singing in the movie,” said Hilty, “and it was remarkable how much of the songs were used. I’ve been a part of things where the music is trimmed down a bit, I don’t know why. But it’s so wonderful to see these songs with the length that we have in this film. This is some of the greatest music ever written. So, it was quite an honor to get to take a crack at it.”

“And it was one of the first things we did in the process,” Mueller added. “We got into the recording studio very early on with our music producer, Tim Lauer. It was so fun to do that research and just kind of do a deep dive into these ladies’ canons, because they were so great and so groundbreaking. I think they’re still groundbreaking now, [but] especially at the time, country music was such a boys’ club, and they were really writing or choosing songs that were about things that mattered to them ... about what they were feeling and what they were thinking and what their lives were like. ... I think people were attracted to their authenticity.”

Jessie Mueller stars as Loretta Lynn

Megan Hilty stars as Patsy Cline

Hilty shared, “I grew up knowing ‘Crazy’ and ‘Walkin’ After Midnight’ and many other songs, but I never looked at them the way that I did when I started doing the research for this film.

They’re so lyrically driven, all of these incredible songs, which is one of the reasons why those songs touched so many people. The other is, of course, Patsy Cline’s iconic voice and styling.”

Mueller said, “I’m the kind of person where there’s a couple voices for me that exist on this plane and this earth that I’m just like – I don’t know, that voice does something to me. I feel it in the core of my being. And now Loretta is one of those voices.

But it wasn’t really until I started this project that I just started finding everything I could. And it was a total joy.”

THE MISERY INDEX

Jameela Jamil, Star of NBC's "The Good Place," Has A New Game Show About Life's Worst Moments. By Taylor Neumann

TBS' new game show The Misery Index is far from your typical game show — instead of contestants guessing at mundane trivia questions, they must rank real-life unfortunate experiences on a scale from 1-100. Possible scenarios include getting attacked by a bear, being breastfed until age 9 or even getting your privates stuck in a shower chair. Yikes. But misery goes down best with laughter, and you'll be doing a lot of that with host Jameela Jamil (Tahani from The Good Place) and the Tenderloins (the comedy team behind truTV's Impractical Jokers), who help "coach" the contestants through each situation. We talked to Jamil about why she decided to host a game show now, what it's like working with those crazy guys and even got her to reveal one of her own embarrassing moments.

Jameela Jamil and the Impractical Jokers (a.k.a. the Tenderloins) — (clockwise from top right) James Murray, Brian Quinn, Joe Gatto and Sal Vulcano

Why did you decide to join the show?

Jameela Jamil: They just said “the Tenderloins” and I said yes. That was basically it. That was the pitch. “Do you want to host a game show with the Tenderloins?” “Yes, please. Please, and when?” Basically, those were my two questions. Before I even knew what the show was about, knowing that they were involved and how much I loved them made me really excited. And I thought the premise of the game was really funny and unique and just a really great way of talking about how humans survive by laughing through their misery. And the show really embodies that.

Had you met the guys before or worked with them previously?

I hadn't. I was just a fan from afar, and they're really big fans of The Good Place. So we were just really excited to meet each other. ... I'd heard wonderful things about them, what they're like to work with, and I can now confirm they are 100% the most extraordinary crew of guys to work with. ... They've been a tight crew over 20 years, and they welcomed me like I was the fifth Tenderloin. I refer to myself as the “Tandoori Tenderloin” because of it. ... I would do this show for 100 years. I love this show so much. It's so stupid and so fun, and I'd work with them forever. ... I've inherited four big brothers.

Share a bit on the stress level of the game's format.

It's a fairly high-stress situation filming a show that people are relying on you for life-changing money, and they want to do life-changing things with that money. The pressure's so on. We care so much. Sal cries in the fourth round every single time he's in it. Every time Sal gets picked for the fourth round, he cries. Which is my favorite thing about him. He just cares so much.

Let's talk The Good Place. You're finished filming the final season — did you take anything from the set?

No. I asked if I could have Ted Danson, but they said no, that's illegal. So I'm hoping they're going to send me a sign — I just want a sign of our neighborhood number.

What projects are you working on now?

I'm turning my Instagram account, I Weigh, into a full company. So I guess I'm a businesswoman. I've hired a staff of women, and we're all going to smash the patriarchy together. ... We're going to create an activism platform for young people to teach them about how to be better allies, and create a space that's radically inclusive, where they can feel like every marginalized person can find someone who looks like themselves on our pages. ...

I'm also writing a book! And hopefully there will be more Misery Index fun ahead.

JAMEELA PLAYS OUR OWN VERSION OF “THE MISERY INDEX”

Worst job ever:

When I was 19, I volunteered to be tested on. It triggered me into eczema forever, so I really hope that product never made it to market. But that was genuinely my job for a year, just testing, drinking anything, trying anything, putting any kind of cream on, trying out makeup in these medical trials, and I've never recovered.

Movie that scarred you for life:

Scream. @#$% that movie. @#$% that movie to hell. I can't be alone at night in a house because of Scream. It's affected all of my living decisions forever. It's affected my rental decisions. I'm haunted forever by that stupid scene where the light comes on. ... That film ruined my life.

Worst food:

Oh yeah. Why do people eat kimchi? I know it's good for you, but it smells like anus when it comes out. Not here for it.

Most embarrassing moment:

I had to interview Daniel Craig once, and I'd mistaken how well I could fit in my dress, and my whole dress exploded open at the back all the way up to the neck. [So] I had my bum out during an interview with Daniel Craig and two Bond girls. ... Everyone heard the dress split open. I had to still sit down and finish the interview, wearing my dress which was now just an apron. I had to moonwalk out of the hotel.

Worst date:

I once went on a date with a man who took lots of drugs before we got to the cinema, and he'd taken a hallucinogenic just before our date — which was at 6pm — so that's the sign that he was a drug addict. But I didn't know. It was our first ever date. And we went to watch 2001: A Space Odyssey, which is already a very trippy movie. And if you're on acid and you watch that film at the same time, you scream for two hours straight. And you and your date get kicked out of the cinema in front of everyone.

Batwoman

There's A New Caped Crusader In Gotham. By Jeff Pfeiffer

Although Australian actress Ruby Rose made a memorable Arrowverse debut as Kate Kane – a.k.a. Batwoman – in last year's crossover event among The CW's several DC Comics-inspired superhero series, she now gets to shine in her own show. As Arrowverse fans prepare to say farewell to the series that started it all, Arrow, which begins its final season this month, they can say hello to this similarly fun series with hints of darkness about a masked hero who takes to the streets to fight crime.

Of course, a setup like that is also familiar to fans of Batman, and this series does take place in the Caped Crusader's hometown of Gotham. But Batman/Bruce Wayne has been mysteriously missing for three years as Batwoman begins, and criminal gangs are again running rampant with no Dark Knight to stop them. Even the military-grade Crows Private Security firm run by Kate's father, Jacob Kane (Dougray Scott), can only do so much when a psychotic supervillain named Alice (Rachel Skarsten) – who has a thing for Lewis Carroll's Alice in Wonderland stories and is as off-the-rails as the Mad Hatter of those tales – threatens the city.

Eventually, Kate – who returns to Gotham to help however she can after Alice kidnaps Kate's ex-girlfriend Sophie Moore (Meagan Tandy) – inadvertently learns the secret identity of her cousin Bruce Wayne after discovering his Batcave. With the reluctant aid of Wayne's security expert Luke Fox (Camrus Johnson), Kate fashions herself into a new hero for Gotham – Batwoman (not to be confused with Batgirl; the two are separate characters in the DC universe).

"That suit is literal perfection," Fox objects when Kate asks him to adapt the Batsuit for her.

"It will be," Kate counters, "when it fits a woman."

Onscreen, Rose clearly has a blast wearing that outfit, designed for the series by four-time Oscar winner Colleen Atwood, and the actress recently recalled the thrill that comes from donning it even when cameras aren't rolling.

"I still remember putting it on for the first time with Colleen," Rose said, "and it's just a magical feeling. ... This thing has been – like, within an inch of its life, it just fits me like a glove. ... You feel the transformation, it's unlike any costume I've ever put on in any role in my life. ... You literally feel faster and stronger and bulletproof. And you are like, 'But I'm not, am I?' ... It's just very difficult to pee in, that's all."

Nancy Drew

Literary Heroine Gets A Dark And Dramatic Makeover. By Kellie Freeze

When the college plans of teenage sleuth Nancy Drew (newcomer Kennedy McMann) are derailed by the unexpected death of her mother, she decides to take a year to grieve and remain in her coastal hometown to keep an eye on her equally heartbroken father (Scott Wolf). But when a socialite is murdered, Nancy finds herself, along with a group of fellow teens, as a prime suspect.

The group – which includes George (Leah Lewis), Nancy's high school rival; Bess (Maddison Jaizani), a rich girl with a mysterious past; Ned "Nick" Nickerson (Tunji Kasim), Nancy's secret boyfriend; and Ace (Alex Saxon), a lovable burnout – teams up to clear their names and discovers the murder isn't the only dark secret in Horseshoe Bay.

"Mysteries are a way of pulling the characters together," explains executive producer Josh Schwartz. "In the beginning, Nancy's like, 'I work alone. I don't need these people who think they're going to help me.' And she actually finds that she needs them both for friendship but also to help her navigate through these mysteries in the town."

The series blends mystery and suspense with the perfect amounts of horror, action and supernatural thrills. Bringing the beloved literary heroine to life is a natural fit for McMann. "I have quite a long history with Nancy Drew. I come from a super literary family. My mom's an author [bestselling YA author Lisa McMann]. I grew up reading the books," she shares. "When [the role] came about, I was like, 'Aaaah! Aaaah! I've been doing this my whole life. I'm ready to go!'"

In a nod to the character's past, Pamela Sue Martin, who starred as Nancy Drew in The Hardy Boys/Nancy Drew Mysteries (1977-79), guest-stars in the pilot as a small-town psychic who delivers an unexpected – and ghostly – clue. McMann reveals that during shooting, Martin wrote her a very special, advice-filled letter. "It was quite personal, but it had a lot to do just with the industry and standing up for oneself and making your own decisions, and how to kind of transition into a role like this," she says. "It was lovely."

Based On The Book: Nancy Drew

The books featuring teen sleuth Nancy Drew were originally developed by publisher Edward Stratemeyer in 1930 as a companion series to his already successful, youth-centric mysteries starring the Hardy Boys. The Nancy Drew mysteries were penned by numerous authors under the pseudonym Carolyn Keene, and the titular character was originally much more violent, headstrong and disobedient in Stratemeyer's series. The poised, privileged and convertible-driving heroine, a product of the '50s revamp of the books, is the Nancy that most people associate with the series. Some of the more popular books in the series include The Secret of the Old Clock, The Hidden Staircase and The Mystery at Lilac Inn.

Timothy Hutton And Brittany Snow Share Their Sides Of The Story About FOX's Charming Dramedy. By Jim Halterman

In FOX's new dramedy, only child Julia Bechley (Brittany Snow) is shocked to learn — along with the rest of the world — that her father, renowned fertility doctor Leon Bechley (Timothy Hutton), regularly used his genetic material to help pregnancy-challenged couples. Enter Edie Palmer (Megalyne Echikunwoke) and Roxy Doyle (Emily Osment), two of the many miracle babies Leon may have fathered and Julia's possible half sisters. "It's controversial subject matter," says executive producer Annie Weisman. Here Hutton and Snow share their sides of the story.

HE SAID

TIMOTHY HUTTON

What was your first meeting with Brittany like?

We met at the first table read. I had seen her in Pitch Perfect, and when I got the news she was playing the role, I was so happy.

How would you describe Leon and Julia's relationship?

Very codependent. Because Julia's mom, my wife, has passed away, they really just have each other ... then trust gets thrown out the window, and they have a tremendous amount to work out.

What's your character's moral line?

He really believes he was simply helping people who were desperate and troubled by not being able to have children.

What does family mean to Leon?

That's one of the big themes. He is going to have to step up as a parent, father, friend and person of emotional support. He's been self-centered most of his life, so learning those things is going to be a challenge.

Rolling your tongue is a shared genetic trait we see in the show. Can you do it?

Yes, I can!

SHE SAID

BRITTANY SNOW

What was your first meeting with Timothy like?

Did he remember? Was it the table read? Yes! He's very hard not to like, and he wears his heart on his sleeve, like I do.

How would you describe Julia and Leon's relationship?

Very codependent, but he has forgotten how to be a parent, so she's the parent to him. That dynamic shifts when he falls from grace.

What's your character's moral line?

Julia has a great moral compass. She really leads with her heart almost to her detriment and puts her needs on the back burner.

What does family mean to Julia?

At first, family means keeping everything copacetic and warm and loving. Then her new definition is that family is what you have to make of it. She's going to have to deal with a lot of things that aren't warm or loving.

Rolling your tongue is a shared genetic trait we see in the show. Can you do it?

Yes! I actually didn't know that wasn't a thing everyone could do!

Dueling Newspapers Cover Breaking News, Scandals And More.

By Taylor Neumann

Masterpiece on PBS presents Press, a 6-episode drama series that takes an in-depth look at two different newsrooms — one a left-leaning traditional newspaper and the other a gossip publication looking to entertain more than inform. Holly Evans (Charlotte Riley) is a news editor at the former — the Herald — who becomes obsessed with finding out what happened to the victim of a hit-and-run by a police car only a few days before. To get footage of the event, she must engage with the editor of the tabloid Post, Duncan Allen (Ben Chaplin). Meanwhile, there are scandals and controversies continually breaking, with each paper trying to be on top, and the staffers try to keep their integrity while chasing their ambition.

The drama originally premiered on BBC One in 2018 and was well-received by audiences, who enjoyed a look at the fast-paced world of continuous news and 24/7 reporting. Press immediately feels topical, especially in our “fake news” world. There is the central mystery of the hit-and-run, but more interesting are the other stories passing by each paper’s desk — a hodgepodge of ethics, sensationalism and emotional politics.

Taken At Birth

These Are The True Stories Of Black-Market Babies Sold Out Of A Small Georgia Clinic. By Barb Oates

Some babies were stolen at birth. Others were given away at birth as their desperate, dirt-poor mothers simply couldn't afford another mouth to feed. In all, hundreds of babies were born and illegally sold out of Hicks Community Clinic in McCaysville, Ga., in the early 1950s to mid 1960s, their real identities completely erased.

This lucrative, black-market baby operation was the work of Dr. Thomas Hicks, an abortion doctor well-known for being able to fix female problems for about $100. Hicks pretty much ran this tiny copper-mining town located in the backwoods of northern Georgia. He assumed a godlike role, deciding who was worthy of children and who wasn't, and sold many of the babies to desperate couples in the Cleveland-Akron area.

Jane Blasio was one of those babies. Her adoptive parents went to the back of Hicks' clinic, where they were handed baby Jane with dried blood on her – not knowing if she would survive.

"From the time I was 5 or 6, when my adoptive parents told my sister and I that we were adopted, and that I knew it was black market, that it was illegal, [I was interested]," Blasio explained. "I always had this kind of cloud in the back that was, 'I got to find my birth family. I have to find them.'"

Blasio's journey to find other Hicks babies and help them find information about their birth parents is told in the TLC three-night series Taken at Birth. Helping her in this story of loss

Having dedicated her life to learning the truth about Hicks and serving as the lead investigator in this case, Blasio was able to find her birth parents through DNA registries. "I know everything about what I had been seeking," she said. "I'm so thankful for the DNA registries and how DNA technology has moved forward so much. If we would have had that same DNA database and the internet back in '97-98, I'm estimating about 90% of our cases would have been closed and we would have had birth families for them, but we're working with what we have now."

What Happened To Amelia Earhart?

Nat Geo Plans To Solve The Mystery. By Maxine Bass

National Geographic's Explorer-at-Large Dr. Robert Ballard will hopefully answer the question of what happened to Amelia Earhart in a two-hour special titled Expedition Amelia. Earhart, who disappeared on July 2, 1937, at the age of 39, was the first female aviator to fly solo across the Atlantic. She was attempting to fly around the world when she was last heard from.

It's been over 80 years since her disappearance, and there have been at least 12 searches for her and her navigator, Fred Noonan.

Ballard, who discovered the Titanic in 1985, thinks that his team has a real shot of rewriting history by solving one of the greatest mysteries of our time. At presstime in late August, he was leading a team of experts, scientists and technicians on an expedition expected to last about three weeks.

As for Ballard's confidence for success? "I am not in the business of failing," he says. "I've been at this 60 years, 156 expeditions under my belt. But to compare the technology I had when I found the Titanic, it was like two cans and a string compared to what we have right now."

Temptation Island On The Set Of TV's Most Addictive Experiment. By Kellie Freeze

Temptation Island returns to USA Network this month, and to celebrate, OnDISH Magazine was invited to witness the series firsthand. I volunteered to be whisked to Maui to chat with host Mark L. Walberg, meet with the couples and discover the secrets of the show's success.

The series brings four non-married couples at a relationship crossroads to Maui, where they spend time apart and experience the single life alongside two dozen eligible singletons. At the end of the experience, the couples are reunited and must decide to leave paradise as a couple, end their relationship to pursue something new with one of the singletons, or break up and leave alone.

When I arrived in Maui, I met the four attractive and charming couples – Ashley G. and Rick, Ashley H. and Casey, Esonica and Gavin, and Kate and David – at the Maui Gold pineapple plantation. The next day, I sat down with each pair and they shared what they hoped to discover during their stays in paradise.

"This is a chance to learn more about myself, and to learn from other people," said Gavin. "This is the time to get some work done so that we can actually come back together and be better than ever."

Casey revealed that he and his girlfriend Ashley came to Temptation Island so she could work on her trust issues and he could prove he's not like the men she's dated before. "This is the ultimate test scenario," he said. "I just want to earn her trust and get her to realize we can move forward in our relationship because I won't be unfaithful like other men in her past."

When Walberg and I chatted about the series' first season, he admitted he thought the season would be good as soon as it wrapped, but knew it would be a hit after he sent the first four episodes to his Navy pilot son. "He put it on in the ready room, which, by the way, looks like the movie Top Gun, but it's real," Walberg revealed. "And all of the pilots went nuts! But then it started to travel throughout the ship – because they have their own intranet where they can share content because they can't watch live TV and they can't use the internet – and it goes viral across the whole ship! And I have video of these fighter pilots and other highly skilled Navy officers singing the show's theme song, [sings] 'You're not going to tempt me ...'"

Walberg said that the series' success comes in its simplicity. "Here's the thing about Temptation Island as opposed to other reality shows," he shared sagely as the Maui trade winds gently ruffled his hair. "You think you need a bunch of gimmicks and games and blocks and dates and vote-offs. And the truth is you don't need any of it. This isn't Survivor where I need to have a new challenge for immunity. And it's not The Bachelor where they go on their dates or we fly them out somewhere or something. That is great, but it doesn't really have any effect on this outcome."

"Arrow" And "Supernatural" Take A Final Bow

By Taylor Neumann

This month begins the final seasons of two of The CW's banner shows.

Arrow is ending with an abbreviated Season 8 – only 10 episodes – with the multiverse hanging in the balance and Oliver (Stephen Amell) taking on his most challenging battle yet. It was also announced that Season 8 will not include Emily Bett Rickards and Colton Haynes (who portrayed Felicity Smoak and Roy Harper) as series regulars, leaving Oliver without two of his most trusted partners as he faces whatever comes next.

Supernatural reaches the end this year with a historic Season 15, which will consist of 20 episodes and bring the sprawling story of the Winchester brothers to an end. Sam and Dean (Jared Padalecki and Jensen Ackles) will yet again be faced with the end of the world, but this time, it's for real. In the Season 14 finale, all the monsters they had spent their lives fighting returned, promising a dark storyline that will also deal with the idea of free will.

After Losing Another Child
And Leaving The King,
What's Next For Carol?

By Barb Oates

Only a few of the original cast members remain going into Season 10 of one of TV's most popular series, but no character has undergone such an extreme evolution as Carol (Melissa McBride). With the season-ending bloodbath led by Alpha (Samantha Morton), the fear the Whisperers have evoked gives rise to paranoia, secret agendas and infighting. After losing her beloved son and leaving the King, Carol is afloat in grief and trying to figure things out, but we all know she's going to be out for Alpha. Here McBride helps set the tone for the new season.

Where is Carol at emotionally and mentally when we start Season 10?

Melissa McBride: When we start Season 10, she's dealing with what happened. She's still reeling from the grief of the loss of Henry, and everybody that she witnessed on the spikes, and the breakup of her relationship with the King, and just trying to find herself again in this world.

In regards to her relationship with the King, what can you share about that?

It's all heartache and brought about by the death of their son Henry. I think for her, having had such great hopes in such a dismal world – I think it's just hard for her to be with him, and like she said, the fairy tale was shattered. Is there really any way to find happiness? And she doesn't want to blame the King. She doesn't want to blame anybody. There's really only one person to blame in this – Alpha. I'm certain that she still has feelings for the King, and adores him, and appreciates him, but it's just difficult for her to be with him in that sense. The constant reminder of what she lost.

And what about her friendship with Daryl?

Well, they still have each other's back, but there may be a little wrench or two thrown in there just to sort of test their loyalty to one another, maybe? I guess I could say that. Of course, being loyal to each other, but as we've seen, @#$% happens.

Over the past few seasons we've seen some major character departures, and we know this is the last season for Danai Gurira, who plays Michonne. How does that change the chemistry on the set?

Gosh. It never gets any easier. Possibly harder because [it's the] people [who have been there] the longest. ... It's weird, it's surreal to see somebody go, and it always does change the dynamic a little in subtle ways that you can feel as you start to move along without them. And we do miss them a lot. You feel something missing. It feels different. Then you get in the day-to-day, and I guess time starts to heal you a little bit, and the stories change, and we see each other at the events, and Comic Cons, things like that. ... We do have a gathering to celebrate everything. Who they are and what they contribute to the show, and that's always really bittersweet, but a very sweet time. It's also exciting to see where they go, and what they do after the show.

Can you assure us fans that you're not departing anytime soon? Are you going to ride this out? Are you happy with your character?

I don't know. Yeah, I'm happy. It just amazes me the evolution of this character, where she started, to see her now. And also I can tell you this season that Carol, and I myself, are doing things that I've never done before and that's really exciting. I'm seeing Carol do stuff that she's never done before. There are sides to Carol, the big reveal, that we've never seen before. ... You know, she's very angry, and also she's out for vengeance. It's not a Walker she's after. It's not the world itself, although she'd like to think she could fight the world itself. The thing [Alpha] is alive and it's breathing and it has a brain and it's thinking and it's manipulative and everything else, and she's fighting that thing in a different way than we've seen her fight other human foes.

What can you share about Jeffrey Dean Morgan's role as Negan? Does Carol think there's any hope for him?

I think he has the best lines. He's got some really good one-liners this year that I'll read in the script and laugh out loud. The interactions he had with Michonne at the end of last season, you think there is hope for this guy, and there's a part of him that you kind of can't help but like. And then you forget, or you remember what he did and how he treated people. That's kind of weird, when you realize, "Ew. Ew, I don't know. Do I want to like him? Ew." ... Everyone's got really good storylines, and Negan I'm really looking forward to seeing.

WHILE YOU WERE SLEEPING

Put On A Pot Of Coffee For The World Series' Late-Night Show. By Ryan A. Berenz

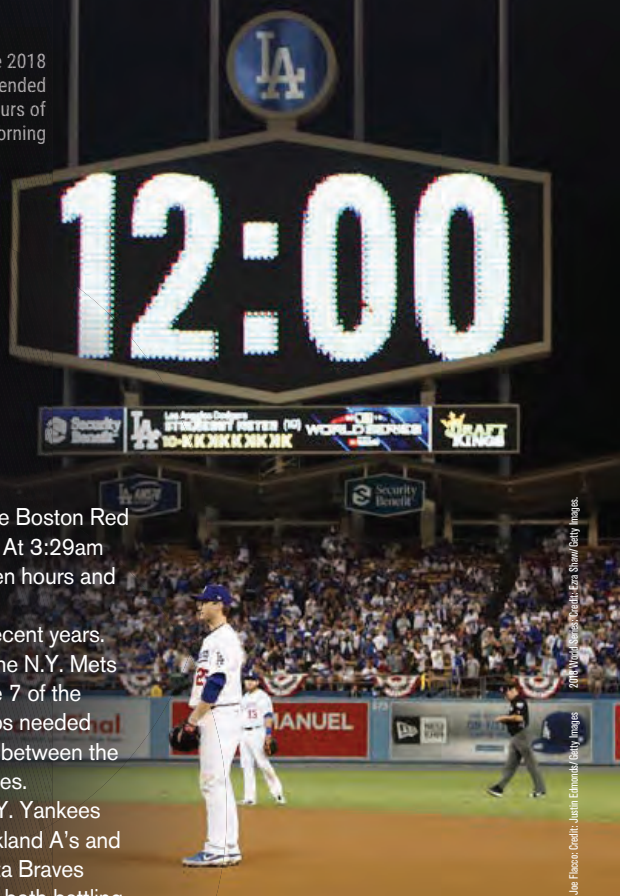

Major League Baseball has been making efforts to speed up the pace of games. The World Series didn't seem to get the memo.

Game 3 of the 2018 World Series between the L.A. Dodgers and the Boston Red Sox was the longest Fall Classic game in history in both time and innings. At 3:29am ET, the Dodgers won 3-2 with a walk-off home run in the 18th inning, seven hours and 20 minutes after the first pitch.

There's been a rash of way-past-primetime World Series games in recent years. Game 1 of the 2015 World Series between the Kansas City Royals and the N.Y. Mets required 14 innings over five hours and nine minutes. The 10-inning Game 7 of the historic 2016 series between the Cleveland Indians and the Chicago Cubs needed four hours and 28 minutes (and a 17-minute rain delay). In 2017, Game 5 between the Dodgers and the Houston Astros took 10 innings and five hours, 17 minutes.

When the regular season concludes Sept. 29, expect the Astros, N.Y. Yankees and Minnesota Twins to win their divisions in the AL, with the Indians, Oakland A's and Tampa Bay Rays chasing the wild card. In the NL, the Dodgers and Atlanta Braves should have their divisions in hand, with the Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals both battling for the Central title. NL wild-card hopefuls include the Washington Nationals, the Philadelphia Phillies and the Milwaukee Brewers. If tiebreakers are needed to decide playoff berths, ESPN will air them on Sept. 30.

The wild-card games are Oct. 1-2 on TBS (NL) and ESPN (AL), followed by the best-of-five-game division series starting Oct. 3 (NL) on TBS and Oct. 4 (AL) on FS1/MLB Network. The best-of-seven NLCS airs exclusively on TBS beginning Oct. 11, with the ALCS beginning Oct. 12 on FOX or FS1. FOX airs the World Series beginning Oct. 22, with home-field advantage in the series awarded to the team with the better regular-season record. Game 7, if necessary, is Oct. 30.

CRITIC PICK OF THE MONTH

Make It A Movie Night!

This journey to a post-Avengers: Endgame world will startle if you aren't up to speed with the status of that film. But if you are, Tom Holland proves to be a quality high school-age Peter Parker. I loved the story, the action and the actors – special props to Jon Favreau and Marisa Tomei. Happy and Aunt May forever!

It's my pick of the month.

Paul Hall is a nationally syndicated film critic and member of the Broadcast Film Critics Association (BFCA).

Spider-Man: Far From Home

(Action) A trip with his class overseas seems like the perfect refresh for young Peter Parker. But Nick Fury has other plans for Spider-Man as a threat is looming. Tom Holland, Zendaya, Jake Gyllenhaal (PG-13, 2:09) Premieres Oct. 1

ACROSS & DOWN

By Donna Pettman

DIRECTIONS

Rearrange the letters in each group to form a word. Place the words into the diagram so that the same words read both across and down. (The first word across is the same as the first word down and so on.) The letter groups are not necessarily placed next to the row of the diagram in which they go.
