FDITOR'S NOTE

Thank You For Sticking With Us!

With the world health crisis still in flux, it's moments like this that remind us just how connected we all are. I'd like to thank all of you for continuing to welcome us into your homes so that we can provide you with some guidance and entertainment during these challenging times. It's amazing how important television has become in our lives — be it news or entertainment — while we have been sheltering at home. Our editorial offices are located just north of Milwaukee, where we've managed to move just about all of our staff to work-at-home environments.

Although challenging at times, especially with so many programming changes, we've been able to put this magazine together and get it delivered to your door. Please be patient with delivery these next few months, as our printers and the USPS are doing their absolute best.

Hopefully you noticed on the Contents page that we added a Hunt & Find game to this issue; it's super simple — just look for the icons we hid in the magazine. We also included a page that details the state of TV today (pretty much all production has shut down) and what you can expect in the near future (see page 9). On behalf of everyone at the magazine, please stay healthy. Know that we care about you and are here if you need us. If you contact us by phone, please leave a message and clearly state your name, phone number and the reason for your call. We check voicemail throughout the day and are resolving questions via phone or mail.

Take care!

I watch several network series. I would like to know why there are sometimes one to two weeks between new episodes, especially Blue Bloods. I understand it could be because of award shows or special sports events, but this season it doesn't seem to be the case. Is Blue Bloods being canceled? - Marilynn

You are understanding things correctly, as shows will make breaks in their schedules for sports, news reports and special airings. As of presstime, the "Blue Bloods" season finale is set for Friday, May 1, and the series has yet to be renewed for an 11th season.

Imagine locking this group of comedic geniuses – Ben Stiller, Courteney Cox, Lisa Kudrow and Adam Scott – in a tricked-out room of clues and puzzles. They've got 60 minutes to try to solve the clues and escape, but they've got Jack Black blurting out all sorts of distractions as their Game Master, so the pressure never lets up. Welcome to Celebrity Escape Room, a one-hour special airing on NBC Thursday, May 21, as part of the network's annual Red Nose Day programming block that raises funds to end child poverty around the world.

"I think the hardest part of the escape room was for everyone working together with a ticking clock," tells executive producer Lee Metzger. "The puzzles themselves were not too hard, but one after another over the course of 60 minutes becomes difficult to stay focused and no two puzzles are alike. Everyone had a common goal, which was to escape, and in the process, they are playing against Jack. Also, you'll probably see a little Monica come out from Courteney when the pressure is on."

engines matching us up to what to watch next. Here we keep it simple.

It's surprising to see each celebrity's abilities and who is good at what, which continues to change as the game progresses.

"Courteney and Lisa are a natural team, so they work together well," adds Metzger. "Ben leads the team through, and Adam adds his own perspective to solving puzzles. They all brought something to the game; sometimes they overthought puzzles and other times missed them completely. Ben had probably done the most escape rooms outside the show, and there is a different way of looking at an escape room and recognizing what is a clue, a puzzle or a dead end, so his experience was a strength."

As for their relentless Game Master, Black brings a complete unpredictability to the show. He knows each of the celebs and helps them through the escape room, but can't resist giving them a really hard time while they try (and sometimes fail). "He was as entertaining to watch on camera as off," Metzger concludes. "But at the same time, he reminded everyone why we were here and that's to raise money for Red Nose Day."

Now in its 16th season, Discovery Channel's Deadliest Catch (Tuesdays) finds the Alaskan crab-fishing fleet up against its toughest competition for the biggest payday. The rival Russians have a revamped crab quota system and are cracking down on poaching. The result is an upward spike in the price of king crab, and the race is on to cash in on the opportunity.

Sig Hansen, venerable captain of the Northwestern, is once again out to claim victory. Hansen, one of the series' most colorful personalities, feels good after overcoming some health scares in recent seasons. "I feel fine, and I'm too stupid to die, so what do you want?" he says. "I feel blessed. I've probably dodged more bullets than anybody you know."

We netted Hansen for the latest edition of our "5 Questions":

What's been your strangest fan encounter?

My wife and I were in Las Vegas one time a few years ago. We were hand-in-hand strolling along in the casino. A group of ladies came up, and one of them saw me and screamed. And then she passed out right on the floor. I looked at my wife, she looked at me, we kind of chuckled, and I stepped right over her and kept on going.

Can you tell us about a time you were starstruck?

We were at a hotel, and Vince Neil, the Mötley Crüe singer, he screamed and goes, "Siiiiiig!" like he'd known me forever. And I looked at him, and he goes, "It's me! Vince!" And I went, "Holy moly. Are you kidding?" And I was starstruck that he was starstruck. So that was pretty cool. I really liked that.

What's a movie that you can watch over and over again?

I like comedies. They're fun to watch. You see things like Dumb and Dumber, and just the silliest movies. We call them "boat movies." It's because when you're on a boat, you don't get a very big selection.

What's your favorite sports team?
I've gotta have the Seattle Sounders. I'm a soccer guy. Overseas, it's Liverpool. I've been a fan of Liverpool since I was a little boy. Of course, the Seahawks. I was privileged enough to raise the 12th Man flag in the stadium. That was just one of those moments in life where you just tap yourself on the shoulder thinking, "Is this really happening?"

You were on the final season of Donald Trump's Celebrity Apprentice. How surreal does that seem now?

It was very difficult to do. I would never trade it. I love the fact that I can look back and say I did that. You feel accomplished when you go through that experience. And I always get to tell people, "I'm the only guy you know that got hired and fired by the president of the United States."

STRONG WOMEN IN BIG ROLES

1 Courteney Cox is returning to television in Starz's half-hour horror comedy Shining Vale, about a dysfunctional family who moves from the big city to a small town into a house where terrible things have happened. Only Pat (Cox) notices anything is afoot, as she tries to determine if she's crazy while remaining sober > and fixing her struggling marriage. Shining Vale comes from Catastrophe's Sharon Horgan and Trial & Error co-creator Jeff Astrof. ... 2 Julie Bowen has nailed down her post-Modern Family plans: The two-time

> > Emmy winner will play the lead in CBS' comedy Raised by Wolves, about a successful and often aggressively blunt - crisis manager who decides to adopt an 11-year-old girl, with help from her nervous wreck of a sister. ... ABC's new comedy pilot

My Village - no relation to last year's canceled The Village – has cast (3) Kyra Sedgwick as its star, playing an empty-nester mother who, after watching her children live their lives thousands of miles away, moves to be near them and reinserts herself into their lives.

A TALE OF TWO PILOTS

Chuck Lorre's sitcom domination continues with a new pilot at CBS B Positive follows Drew, a newly divorced dad who also needs a new kidney. He meets up with Gina, a "rough around the edges" woman who offers him a kidney, and the two become an odd couple of sorts. Already attached to the project is Thomas Middleditch (Silicon Valley) as Drew and Annaleigh Ashford (Masters of Sex) as Gina, as well as Kether Donohue (You're the Worst) and Sara Rue (who's previously appeared on Lorre's Mom and The Big Bang Theory) in supporting roles. ... The drama pilot Harlem's Kitchen is bringing food TV to ABC: The series is set in a fine dining restaurant in Harlem, where executive chef Ellis Rice serves as the patriarch of his family, running the restaurant with his wife and three daughters. But after an unexpected death, secrets are revealed, and everything is put in jeopardy. The show has already cast (4) Delroy Lindo as Ellis. Food Network fans may recognize the name Marcus Samuelsson - the frequent Chopped judge and Harlem restaurant owner serves as an executive producer on the project.

OTHER CASTING NEWS

ABC's drama pilot The Brides – from Riverdale and Chilling Adventures of Sabrina's Roberto Aguirre-Sacasa and superproducer Greg Berlanti – has cast (5) Goran Višnjić (Timeless) as Count Dracula and Gina Torres (Suits) as one of the titular brides. The series follows Dracula's three brides (Katherine Reis and Erin Richards will play the other two) as they flee the castle to start a new life together, leaving the infamous vampire for dead. ... Anthony LaPaglia (Without a Trace) will costar alongside comedian Jim Jefferies in his new comedy pilot Jefferies at NBC. Jefferies will play a fictionalized version of himself, a comedian taking on modern life, and LaPaglia will play his dad Trevor, a recent widower moving into Jim's guest house.

Socially Distanced Shows

When you change the channel after getting the latest updates on the coronavirus pandemic from your preferred news network, you notice that regular programming is looking, well, rather irregular. The coronavirus forced many TV shows to suspend production, meaning several series have had their premieres or finales delayed. Sports, talk shows, and scripted and unscripted series are all experiencing cancellations, postponements and production shutdowns lasting a month, possibly longer. As of presstime, here's how things are looking in the near and distant future.

TV's Biggest Tragedy - Live Sports

Every major sporting league is on hold, and that's where it hits us the hardest. There will be no Kentucky Derby in May as it's been pushed to September, no Indy 500 until August, no Formula One Monaco Grand Prix, no French Open tennis until September, no Wimbledon this year and no Summer Olympic Games in Tokyo until July 2021. Opening day of Major League Baseball is delayed indefinitely. Golf's PGA Tour events are canceled through mid May. The NHL and NBA have suspended play, Major League Soccer is taking a timeout for 30 days, and NASCAR won't rev up again until possibly later in May. All of these changes alone leave hundreds of hours to be filled, most with repeats and Kentucky Derby pushed to September some original episodes.

Scripted Series

No season finales for some shows? That's what we're facing as our favorite shows have all stopped production, and if they didn't wrap filming prior to the pandemic, you're not going to see many new episodes until after we get through this and/ or will see shortened seasons with no real season finale. Upwards of 100 series and pilots are on hiatus – for example, all of the NCIS dramas, FBI and Young Sheldon on CBS; ABC's Grey's Anatomy (21 of the 25 episodes were shot) and The Goldbergs; NBC's Chicago franchise, Superstore (it's unclear if/when Amy – America Ferrera – will get a proper sendoff) and Saturday Night Live; and more. The series finale of The CW's Supernatural had yet to be shot before production halted, but expect the network to bring a satisfying conclusion to the show, possibly through a movie event. Other popular series on hold include AMC's The Walking Dead Season 10 finale, which will air as a special later this year (it was originally scheduled for April 12), and its new spinoff The Walking Dead: World Beyond, which had its debut pushed back. FX's new Fargo has been delayed indefinitely. Streaming series including The Handmaid's Tale (Hulu), The Morning Show (Apple TV+) and the upcoming Lord of the Rings (Prime Video) are also on break. It's still unclear what this means for many current-season episodes that have not been filmed. We anticipate that everything is going to push back to fall, and instead of season premieres, we'll pick up where we last left off and keep going.

Completed In Time

And for some good news – all 20 Season 3 episodes of ABC's The Good Doctor are finished, as well as all 15 episodes of the sixth and final season of How to Get Away With Murder, so you'll see those seasons through. Other series that have their episodes in the bag include The Masked Singer and Outlander.

Real-Time TV Comes To A Halt

Also coming to a stop are several competition and reality series. ABC's The Bachelorette and American Idol, and Season 33 of CBS' The Amazing Race, which had been shooting in the U.K. when production halted (Season 32 debuts May 20), are all postponed. Shooting on CBS' Survivor Season 41 (slated for next fall) was set to begin in late March in Fiji, but hasn't even begun yet.

Fall TV Threat

September's fall TV kickoff may seem far off, but March and April were typically when the networks film their pilots. Since production on these could-be series has also halted, the broadcast networks may be left scrambling to fill holes in their 2020-21 schedules – or they may push the start of the new season to later in the year. Another reason for pilot delays is that current series have to wrap before actors can start work on new projects. For example, because The CW's Supernatural called off production before finishing its last episodes, star Jared Padalecki may have to delay his next gig, headlining the network's Walker, Texas Ranger reboot.

Stay Entertained With DISH! By Colleen Skells

With so many of us spending more time indoors recently, we at DISH know that you're relying on your TV service now more than ever to entertain yourself and your loved ones. That's why we want to make sure that you know about all of the ways to watch your favorite shows or find new programming.

Top Tips For Finding New & Favorite Shows:

1. Use your Voice Remote or search. The easiest way to find something specific you want to watch is to use the search capabilities on your receiver.

If you have a Voice Remote, press and hold the microphone button and speak what you want to watch, such as a movie/ show title or actor

If you don't have a Voice Remote, press the search button and use the onscreen keypad to type a show or movie title

2. Check out our free previews. We added a variety of channels to make sure you have plenty to watch, even if you don't subscribe to a programming package that includes certain channels.

To see everything available in free preview:

On your Hopper, Joey or Wally, go to Channel 103 in your guide and select the "This Month's Featured Free Previews" option

On your ViP receiver, tune to Channel 102

3. Have a movie night at home and rent one of the titles starting on Channel 501 or 502 in your guide. If you have a Hopper, Joey or Wally, you can also watch "DISH Family Flicks" available in the free movies section of On Demand (see how to access in the next step).

4. View everything available On Demand.

On your Hopper, Joey or Wally, tune to Channel 300. Look to "Free Movies" and "Free TV Shows" to see all of the content available at no additional cost.

On your ViP receiver, press the Menu button on your remote, and then select On Demand

5. If you have more people than TVs in your home, increase your viewing capabilities by using the DISH Anywhere app on a mobile device. Or DISH Anywhere app on a mobile device. Or you can visit dishanywhere.com on a laptop/ computer.

6. On your Hopper, Joey or Wally:

You can visit a new app called DISH Headlines to watch multiple news channels all at one time. Go to Channel 207 to launch the app and stay informed.

Check out Channel 102 every Saturday at 8pmET for free televised concerts.

A lot has happened in the last 20 years since we were first introduced to the likes of Richard Hatch, Kelly Wiglesworth, Rudy Boesch, Susan Hawk and 12 other contestants in the premiere season of Survivor, which began in May 2000. Just think about it. iPhones didn't exist. There was no Facebook or Twitter or YouTube. What we had was this new reality show about an eclectic group of individuals trying to outwit, outplay and outlast one another to win a million dollars.

Fans of the series will never forget that first season finale when a scorned Hawk delivered to the jury a revengeful rant on why the snake – the bombasticnatured Hatch – deserved to win over the rat, an athletic but backstabbing Wiglesworth. From that point on, fans were forever hooked.

Fast-forward 20 years and 39 seasons later, and we are watching (Wednesdays on CBS) the best of the best (past winners only) battle it out in an unprecedented season for $2 million. Who will take home the largest cash prize in reality TV history? As the 40th season, Survivor: Winners at War, nears a close, we caught up with a fan favorite.

Catching Up With Ethan Zohn

"I would like to see an old-school player win this season," Ethan Zohn tells us. "Me included." About a week before our nationwide shutdown, we talked to the 2001 Survivor: Africa winner, who's been an all-star in the game and in life as a two-time cancer survivor. His journey this season in Survivor: Winners at War spoke to an element of the game that sometimes gets lost in the throes of competition – true empathy and compassion.

Zohn was voted out in Episode 3 (Day 9) and joined Danni Boatwright, Amber Mariano and Natalie Anderson on the Edge of Extinction. Here he shares his thoughts on the emotional moment when his competitors helped him in that log-fetching challenge and much more.

The Day He Cried

"When I was there. I cried." Zohn tells. "It was an unbelievable moment when I was out there and the fact that here we are competing against each other to win $2 million. We're stuck in this horrible purgatory, we're all competing for these fire tokens, and you don't expect that kind of compassion and empathy in the middle of this horrible, cutthroat game. I mean. Survivor at its core is about people. We're just human beings. Yeah, we're playing this game, but we have feelings, we have emotion, compassion. I just thought it was beautiful ... I mean, no one wants to go up that freaking mountain one time a day, nevertheless 20. Then, they did it an extra time just to follow me up there. That took us six hours and they got it down to share this cool story of overcoming obstacles, and camaraderie and teamwork."

On What We Don't See

"I would say 18 out of the 24 hours a day are filled talking about what we're going to eat when we get home. We had lists and everyone goes around in a circle and says, 'OK, when you get home, tell me what you are going to have for lunch. Now breakfast, now dinner.' It's pretty funny."

On A Meaningful Fan Encounter

"The coolest one was most recent. I was giving a speech in Sarasota at a Jewish community, and a woman who I had never seen before, she's in her 80s, came up to me and started showing me probably 20 to 25 photos of my dad when he was a teenager. My dad passed away when I was 14, and I only kind of know my dad from when my mom met him. This woman, her name was Shelly, was my dad's girlfriend [before Zohn's mom]. She came in and showed me these pictures of her and my dad and my dad's brother, my uncle. This is 10 minutes before I was supposed to go onstage to give a speech and I was just bawling. ... I just felt really connected to my dad at that moment and it was totally out of the blue. She's been following my career since 2001."

On His CBD Business & New TV Project

"I'm actually involved with another fun project. I'm deeply involved with cannabis and CBD. I'm an investor in a 116-acre hemp field in Plainfield, Vt. We filmed the whole thing for a reality show, [which is being produced by] Thom Beers [Deadliest Catch, Storage Wars]. It's about two guys, I'm not one of those guys, [one of the guys is legendary TV pitchman Anthony 'Sully' Sullivan, who's the OxiClean guy]. He bought the farm and he's a good buddy of mine. His daughter went through some major health issues, and he got her on CBD. Her seizures have reduced by over 70%. Cannabis and CBD was a huge part of my survivorship and getting through. When I found out my buddy bought the farm, I'm like, I want to know where my stuff is coming from, so I moved up there and I lived on the farm. I got back from Survivor, moved up there, lived on the farm, planted, harvested, processed, and now we're creating a line of products that will be coming out probably after the television program and this summer or fall [note: this was prior to the pandemic]. All the sales from the product is going to go to fund an organization called Safe Roots Foundation, which is a teenage drug misuse prevention organization."

His Charities

Zohn has always used his fame as a platform to serve as a mentor, and to support various charities and philanthropy in general, including his own GrassrootSoccer.org, as well as Stand Up To Cancer and other initiatives.

SNOWPIERCER

A Thrilling, Edge-Of-Your-Seat Ride On Social-Class Divides And The Race For Survival. By Jeff Pfeiffer But with movies like Contagion and Outbreak – which eerily parallel our battle against a life-threatening virus – being some of the most-streamed movies by viewers these days, there seems to be a cathartic release, and some hope, to be found in watching fictional characters fight against dire situations, as is the case with Snowpiercer.

"I think art is useful in a few different ways," offers Daveed Diggs, the Tony-winning star of Hamilton who headlines Snowpiercer and thinks the series has a vital place, especially now.

"One of those ways," he continues, "is that, particularly with science fiction, if we use it as allegory for [our real world], it allows us to externalize it a little bit so that we can comment on it, so that we can have conversations that don't feel as personal. But we can still talk about the things that are going on in our world. That's one of the great functions of science fiction.

"The other [thing] about Snowpiercer," Diggs adds, "is it's actually really fun. ... There's a ton of really propulsive storytelling."

allowed aboard – and now perpetually circles the globe.

Those on the train also include the less privileged who managed to fight their way onboard before it departed, and who now spend their lives locked in the train's Tail, far away from those enjoying life in First Class.

When we meet Diggs' character, Andre Layton, he is among those in the Tail. In his former life, Andre was a homicide detective. Now, as apparently the last surviving person with such skills, Connelly), the train's Head of Hospitality whose deceptively soothing voice is regularly heard over the train's PA system.

As with Andre, we get glimpses of who Cavill is, and the secrets she may be hiding, in the first episode. Diggs explains that as the series progresses, more about them and other characters will be learned.

"We do dive into the past a little bit," he says, "but there's a method that I think is really smart by which Snowpiercer deals with flashbacks, and it has to do with this idea that one of the unifying factors between classes on the train is that everybody there has experienced trauma [following the end of the world]. There's a kind of healing that needs to go on for that, and there are folks who are responsible for that healing. That process is how flashbacks are dealt with."

As a major character itself, more of the Snowpiercer is also slowly uncovered as Andre discovers other parts of the train during his investigation. And it's not just the detective who is impressed as he explores this wider world – Diggs, too, was amazed at what the series' set designers kept coming up with.

Snowpiercer offers great action sequences, and espionage and mystery.

The storytelling in the series is indeed as propulsive as the super-train of its title. Based on a 1982 graphic novel and series producer Bong Joon Ho's cult 2013 film adaptation (see sidebar on next page), Snowpiercer is set seven years after Earth has become a frozen wasteland. The gigantic Snowpiercer train has been created to house the remnants of humanity – or at least those privileged enough to be he is brought uptrain by the leaders of the Snowpiercer to help investigate a murder.

While Andre is "a staunch supporter of the Tail," according to Diggs, and does not want to leave the others behind, he is not given much choice by those at the front of the Snowpiercer.

Among those powers-that-be is Melanie Cavill (Oscar winner Jennifer

THE LADIES ONBOARD

JENNIFER CONNELLY AS MELANIE CAVILL

Cavill is Snowpiercer's Head of Hospitality. Connelly says of her, "The person you meet in Episode

1 is very different from the person you come to know by the end of [Season 1]."

ALISON WRIGHT AS RUTH WARDLE

According to Wright, "My character [helps] everything run smoothly on the train." Fanatically loyal, Wardle is a dedicated enforcer of the Order that defines class on Snowpiercer.

MICKEY SUMNER AS BESS TILL

Brakeman Till is paired with Andre Layton to solve a crime. Sumner adds, "[Bess isn't] confined to any class or carriage. I felt very lucky to have that freedom to be fully in the train."

ANNALISE BASSO AS LJ FOLGER

LJ is the nihilistic teenage daughter of the powerful Folger family in First Class. After almost seven years on Snowpiercer, she's almost as conniving as her parents.

"Oh, man," recalls the actor. "The train keeps revealing itself. It's pretty incredible, really, as an actor, because the production design is kind of fantastic. So, you would walk into these spaces just like, 'How did you do this?' ... It felt like every week I would show up and see new cars. I mean, to the point where they kept having to add more stages."

While Season 1 of Snowpiercer was completed before the pandemic shut down many TV productions, filming on the second season was suspended.

But Diggs says, "We were almost done, so I'm not super worried about [finishing Season 2]."

In the meantime, he assures viewers that Season 1 offers "great action sequences, and espionage and mystery. I do think it will be enjoyable for folks. Also, we may be inside for quite a while. You're going to want to watch everything at this point."

Snowpiercer TNT, Sundays beginning May 17

"SNOWPIERCER" THE MOVIE

TNT's Snowpiercer series is based on the 1982 French graphic novel Le Transperceneige and the 2013 feature film adaptation Snowpiercer. That movie was cowritten and directed by Oscar winner Bong Joon Ho (Parasite) and starred Chris Evans, Tilda Swinton, Octavia Spencer, Ed Harris and John Hurt. Diehard fans of the cult classic should feel comfortable knowing that Bong is onboard as a producer of the series, even if there are necessary differences. According to star Daveed Diggs, "I would say [the series] borrows more heavily from the graphic novels but also diverges from there, too. It is its own Snowpiercer story. ... I think fans of both [the graphic novels and the movie] will find it, I hope, highly respectful or even reverential of the original."

FARGIRL

The CW Adds To Its Staple Of Superhero Series.

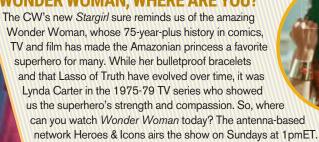

By Jeff Pfeiffer

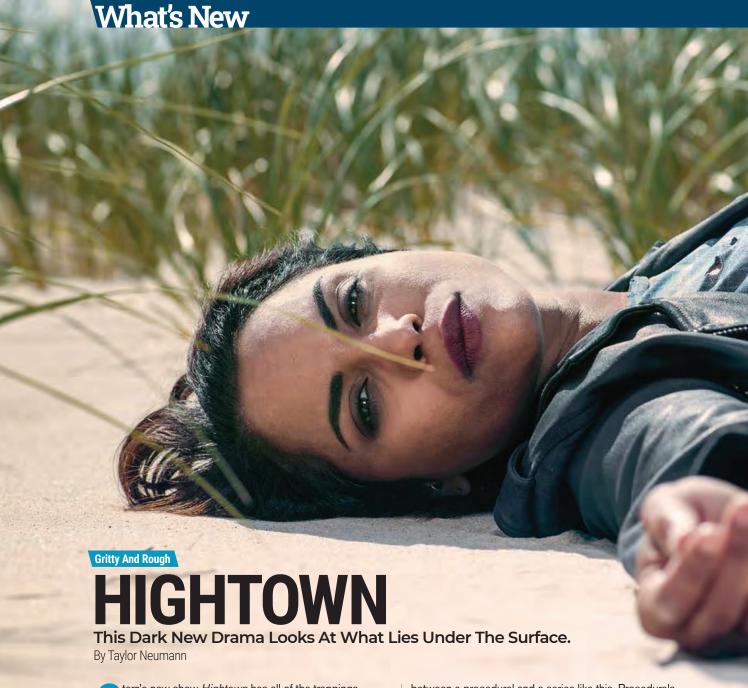

Not to be confused with the recent, unrelated Disney+ original movie also called Stargirl, this new series is based on the superhero appearing in DC Comics. The character, who debuted in 1999, started writer/ producer Geoff Johns' career as a comic-book writer. Stargirl was lovingly inspired by Johns' late younger sister Courtney, who was killed in the 1996 TWA Flight 800 crash.

Johns is an executive producer of what is described as an "unpredictable" series, which will reimagine Stargirl and the very first superhero team, the Justice Society of America. Brec Bassinger leads the cast as high school sophomore Courtney Whitmore, who discovers a powerful cosmic staff that imbues her with superpowers. As Stargirl, Courtney inspires an unlikely group of young heroes to stop villains of the past. Luke Wilson and Amy Smart also star.

Stargirl officially launches on the DC Universe streaming service on May 18, with new episodes premiering there on Mondays, with linear airings on The CW Tuesdays starting May 19.

Stargirl The CW, Tuesdays beginning May 19

tarz's new show Hightown has all of the trappings of an intense prestige drama – murder, addiction, sex. It follows hard-partying National Marine Fisheries Service agent Jackie Quiñones (played by Chicago Fire's Monica Raymund) as her discovery of a dead body in the bay propels her into sobriety and a compulsion to figure out what happened. The setting is Provincetown in Cape Cod, rife with tourists, but the people who live there have their own secrets.

This kind of project is new to Raymund, who after graduating from Juilliard cut her teeth on shows like Lie to Me and The Good Wife. "I had been doing television for so long and I really wanted to challenge myself with something dark and gritty and complex. ... It could not be any more different than what I've done before," said Raymund.

Coming from a series like Chicago Fire, Raymund was transitioning from a different universe. "That's the difference between a procedural and a series like this. Procedurals, the story is not A to Z, there's a format for each episode. [Hightown] is a narrative series, and so we start at A, we go all the way through, we come from one or a handful of characters' points of view, but we're following the full arc of these characters' journey through the story."

The character of Jackie in Hightown is a portrayal of someone unfortunately familiar to many viewers, that of an addict trying to get by. "Jackie is someone who's trying to figure out who she is," explained Raymund. "She's trying to discover what her purpose is in life and she has this hole inside of her. ... And I think that finding this girl, this dead body, and becoming obsessed with this case is filling the hole within her. She's trying to remove drugs and alcohol from filling that hole. ... Maybe she's doing it on the chance that maybe this is for something good."

Hightown Starz, Sundays beginning May 17

The city also plays a big role in the action. "Provincetown is known to be this really super fun, queer-friendly, artistic community, especially during the summer season. ... But then, when everything dies down, there's the reality of the people who actually live there. ... There's this dark underbelly to the town of people who are struggling, of people who are riddled with addiction, of drug trafficking and people making bad decisions trying to survive. So Provincetown as a character, you get to explore the duality of the town as much as you do the duality of the characters."

Raymund hopes the show strikes a chord with viewers looking for something different on television, and she's helping pave the way for inclusivity onscreen. "Something that's really important to me is that I'm representing my community. I'm playing a queer Latina woman, and I am a queer Latina woman, so that's an honor for me to be able to do."

Original Biopic

I WAS LORENA BOBBITT

Lifetime Returns To The Story Cut From '90s Tabloid Headlines. By Ryan A. Berenz

In 1993. Lorena Bobbitt's act of severing her then-husband's penis with a knife and throwing it into a field made her a household name and fodder for countless sensationalized news stories. Decades later, it has turned her into an advocate in the fight against domestic violence.

Bobbitt's story was recently revisited and reexamined in Amazon's 2019 true-crime docuseries Lorena, which included interviews with her.

Now, Bobbitt teams up with Lifetime as executive producer and narrator of the original scripted biopic I Was Lorena Bobbitt. The movie's story, told from Bobbitt's perspective, reveals her life as an immigrant bride suffering in an abusive marriage, her act of retribution, the ensuing media frenzy and courtroom battles, and how she was able to turn that tumultuous time in her life into something positive.

Dani Montalvo (Dispatches From Elsewhere) stars as Bobbitt, with Luke Humphrey (Tiny Pretty Things) playing her ex-husband, John.

Following the premiere, Bobbitt and the cast appear in an announcement for the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence as part of Lifetime's public affairs campaign, Stop Violence Against Women.

For over two decades, the game show Who Wants to Be a Millionaire? has remained a familiar part of popular TV culture. But only those who were around for its early, pre-syndication days know just what a massive, worldwide phenomenon the show was when it debuted.

After its launch in Britain in 1998, the Millionaire format quickly spread to other countries. Phrases like "phone a friend" and "Is that your final answer?" quickly entered everyone's vocabulary.

The show's unprecedented popularity – and prize money – led some people to desperately look for ways to "hack" the show and determine patterns in the questions. That obsession was something also apparently exported from Britain; early on, quiz fanatics across the pond developed an elaborate network to study Millionaire and help people get on. By 2001, these efforts inevitably led to what producers had been fearing – an alleged hack of the show, by Charles and Diana Ingram. The couple, with another man, were accused of, and tried for, cheating their way to the British Millionaire's 1 million pound grand prize while Charles was in the hot seat, via a system where a cough from an offstage co-conspirator would clue him in to correct answers.

But did the Ingrams, who maintain their innocence to this day, actually cheat? Unlike the questions on Millionaire, the answer to that is not cut and dried, and that's part of what makes Quiz, a dramatization of these events, so fascinating.

The three-part drama is written by James Graham, who adapts his 2017 play, and directed by Stephen Frears (The Queen). It is a compelling and at times humorous miniseries that also explores the nature of game show fandom and human memory, and whether some questions can't be answered as definitively as the ones on a quiz show.

The terrific cast is headlined by Matthew Macfadyen (Succession) and Sian Clifford (Fleabag) as the Ingrams, with an especially engaging Michael Sheen (Masters of Sex) as Millionaire host Chris Tarrant.

"We just sort of present both sides," Graham explains, "and we do the classic Who Wants to Be a Millionaire? 'ask the audience' – we ask the audience to make up their minds about whether [the Ingrams are] innocent or guilty."

If a viewer has ever agonized with a Millionaire contestant sweating it out in the hot seat, they will feel that same drama again with the wonderful and suspenseful recreations of the show that Frears stages. "Actually being sat in that chair," Clifford recalls of being on the re-created Millionaire set, "and [with] that music designed to get under your skin and make you feel tense, it really did. And we had a full lighting and sound rig, and it was really thrilling to actually do it."

So thrilling, apparently, that Sheen quips, "I got really disappointed after we finished filming that every time I entered the room in real life the lights didn't go [makes game show noise] and the music didn't go [makes another noise] every time I walked in. That was very upsetting."

Quiz AMC, Three-part series airs Sundays beginning May 31

Not simply a retelling of events, the miniseries feels at times like a heist thriller, which Clifford says was part of the goal.

"We really do that," she agrees, "we really build to that point, and then we pull the rug. ... [The show] was huge, and we kind of forget. Now, we have a different relationship with, you know, a million pounds, but at the time that was the biggest prize money ever being given away on a game show. It was historic."

Graham elaborates: "In terms of making a 'theft by coughing' as exciting as a Mission: Impossible movie ... having [the actors] play that level of suspicion and suspense is half the job. It's [also Frears] having fun with the form. ... It's really exciting television to see whether or not that, one, they're doing it, and, two, if they are doing it, will they get away with it?"

Despite the suspense, though, Clifford adds that "what's at the heart of this story is the humanity of these people."

Graham agrees. "I think [we tried] to get an audience to walk in [the Ingrams'] footsteps a bit," the writer says, "whether you believe them or not, and to ask questions about the proportionality of what happened to them.

"[Quiz is] also questioning whether or not everything we believe about this case is true. I hope it is both an entertaining story, but [also] asks bigger questions about the nature of truth and justice in the 21st century."

Fascinating Documentary Revisits An Iconic Musical Hotbed.

By Jeff Pfeiffer

At certain points in history, particular locations in particular times have become centers for artists to create influential and lasting works. Italy in the Renaissance, Harlem in the 1920s and Paris in the 1930s have been among such places, and so was Los Angeles' Laurel Canyon area from the mid 1960s into the '70s. The mountainous neighborhood/canyon nestled in the Hollywood Hills was a hub for the counterculture of that time and attracted an amazing array of creative musical talents who inspired each other, fostered each other's work and went on, individually and in groups, to make songs of lasting importance and enjoyment.

Joni Mitchell, Linda Ronstadt, the Eagles, the Doors and Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young – these are just a few of the iconic names to have been influenced directly or indirectly by the highly creative musical epicenter that Laurel Canyon became for a brief time about half a century ago.

In her two-part documentary film Laurel Canyon, director Alison Ellwood (History of the Eagles) chronicles these and other personalities, and their famous songs, who sprung from this relatively small section of L.A. The film is wistfully subtitled A Place in Time, lending a sense to how ephemeral a special moment and locale like that can be. Befitting that, Ellwood's film also tries to put a finger on just how and why Laurel Canyon temporarily became, as musician Graham Nash describes it at one point, a "beautiful bubble of creativity and friendship and sunshine and sex and drugs and music."

Ellwood effectively captures that "place in time" not only through voice-overs of people like Nash who were there (as well as voice-overs featuring past comments from artists who have passed on, such as Cass Elliot), but also through a nonstop soundtrack of tunes that had their origins in Laurel Canyon, and with stunningly restored film footage and photos.

This all combines to fully immerse the viewer in a locale that comedian/musician Steve Martin recalls in a voice-over as feeling "exclusive, but not exclusive to wealth — exclusive to spirit."

You're It! Introducing FOX's High-Intensity, High-Stakes Spin On The Schoolyard Game.

By Ryan A. Berenz

The NFL's Watt brothers know a lot about chasing and being chased. They do it for a living.

The trio of siblings from Wisconsin – defensive end J.J. Watt of the Houston Texans, and linebacker T.J. and fullback Derek of the Pittsburgh Steelers – host FOX's competition series Ultimate Tag, a high-octane, high-stakes version of the timeless playground game.

In each weekly episode, contestants from every walk of life must navigate a course of moving and stationary obstacles, using all their mental and physical skills to evade the Taggers, who are released into the course at different intervals. The Taggers are elite athletes possessing abilities ranging from lightning speed to parkour tactics. As the contestants advance, they'll face increasingly more difficult courses and challenges in pursuit of getting to the championship and the cash prize that awaits the winner.

"Everyone has played it, just never quite like this," J.J. posted on Twitter. "We found some of the best athletes on the planet (and a few of the weirdest & most psycho) and put them in our own massive jungle gym. Just one rule: Don't. Get. Caught."

And possibly one more: No tag backs.

CALL YOUR MOTHER

Comedians Give A Shout-Out To Mom. By Ryan A. Berenz

"You've got to get the funny in life from somewhere," says comedian Louie Anderson. "For me, that was my mom."

Comedy Central and Loki Films celebrate Mother's Day with Call Your Mother, a documentary film featuring some of the biggest names in comedy revealing what role their moms have had in shaping their careers.

For many comics, it was Mom who drove them to acting lessons or signed them up for talent shows. For Jo Koy, impressions of his Filipina mother became one of the biggest and funniest parts of his standup act. "I was really scared to talk about my mom," Koy says. "But once I started, it was over with."

There's also a tendency for standup performers to keep it clean when Mom's in the audience. David Spade had to change about a third of his set when his mom attended a show in Vegas. After all, he kisses his mother with that mouth.

Other comedians featured in the film include Awkwafina, Jimmy Carr, Bridget Everett, Fortune Feimster, Rachel Feinstein, Judah Friedlander, Jim Gaffigan, Judy Gold, Jen Kirkman, Bobby Lee, the Lucas brothers, Norm Macdonald, Jim Norton, Tig Notaro, Yvonne Orji, Kristen Schaal and Roy Wood Jr.

BAKEAWAY CAMP WITH MARTHA STEWART

Six Newbie Bakers Get The Opportunity Of A Lifetime. By Barb Oates

The domestic diva is a camp director now? Looks like the tireless business titan continues to surprise as she joins Food Network's new fourpart series Bakeaway Camp With Martha Stewart.

The show follows six amateur bakers who compete in outdoor campinspired food and game challenges for their shot at $25,000 worth of kitchen appliances and the priceless prize of being mentored by and baking with the queen herself in her home kitchen.

Stewart will guide competing bakers through various challenges along with camp counselors and baking experts Carla Hall and Dan Langan, and host Jesse Palmer. In the premiere episode, Stewart arrives on horseback and kicks off the s'more challenge. For you non-campers, that delicacy involves toasting a marshmallow over a campfire and then placing that gooey goodness over a piece of chocolate and sandwiching between two graham crackers. The winner of each challenge earns a mentoring session with Stewart in her home kitchen, and will get tips and tricks to help them in the Camp Director's challenge, where the campers battle the elements by creating layered desserts in an outdoor kitchen. Now it wouldn't be true camping without the challenges of inclement weather and nature (the pie-decorating challenge got complicated with a swarm of bees), so these bakers experience it all.

"As a renowned baker armed with a one-of-a-kind sense of humor, Martha Stewart is everything you can ask for in a camp director," said Courtney White, president of Food Network. "Viewers get to witness the adoration these bakers have for Martha, as they are transported out of their environment and into the outdoors to participate in unique challenges with a chance to receive mentorship from the legend herself."

CAMP GETAWAY

Spend Some Time At Summer Camp ... For Grownups.

By Taylor Neumann

Have you ever wanted to go back to summer camp? Bravo's new series Camp Getaway feels like the manifestation of a childhood dream — with an adult twist. On summer weekends, a kids summer camp in the Berkshire Mountains in Connecticut turns into a playground for grownups looking to party, and among it all is a group of counselors — called "social coordinators" — who are responsible for making sure the guests have an amazing time. But soon the camp becomes a breeding ground for drama as the employees figure out the weekend is much harder work than they thought.

Guests head to Camp Getaway to escape their normal lives through fun activities like archery and zip lining, culminating in nightly parties where the liquor flows freely. The social coordinators flit in and out of groups, trying to make the experience a great one. When they signed up for the job, they expected to have fun – and the reality of work can hit hard. As the owner of the camp says at the beginning, one in two of the counselors will not make it through the summer.

The first episode highlights a guest's 40th birthday party, which is a massive affair with over 200 people. The social coordinators must pick up the cake from the local bakery, facilitate a pig roast for the luau-themed party, assist participants on their activities and, of course, stay upbeat to make the party go smoothly. Going back to camp may sound fun and nostalgic, but to this group of counselors, this experience may be more than they were ready for.

THE 100 The CW

Wednesdays beginning May 20

The CW's sci-fi hit returns for its seventh and final season. Season 6 ended on quite a cliffhanger, with an adult version of Hope (Shelby Flannery) potentially killing Octavia (Marie Avgeropoulos). But when it comes to fan-favorite character Octavia, showrunner Jason Rothenberg told Entertainment Weekly, "Whether she's alive or dead, Marie's amazing and you can safely say we have not seen the last of her." Season 7 will feature 16 episodes, bringing the total episode count for the series to, fittingly, 100.

hen Billions Season 4 left off, finance mogul Bobby "Axe" Axelrod (Damian Lewis) and New York Attorney General Chuck Rhoades (Paul Giamatti) were back at odds. Viewers can expect the tension between the two to escalate as Season 5 begins. "When two alpha dogs are in the same territory, it's only a matter of time until one of them has to make a move for primacy or both of them are going for the same patch of turf," said showrunner David Levien. "The way we looked at it, this season starts with the appearance of cordiality, as if it's a cold war, and then at some point the war gets hot."

Last season also saw Taylor (Asia Kate Dillon) with some firm plans to try to take out the guys. "Because of the difficulty of that and other vagaries of the business, Taylor has a lot of obstacles in their way trying to achieve that," explained Levien. "In the meantime, Taylor Mason Capital has come onboard at Axe Capital and Wendy [Maggie Siff] finds herself unattached from Chuck – unattached as a woman trying to find her own sense of happiness in this new way and be responsible for that." A sunny relationship may not be in the cards for the two. "Things were not in a great place trustwise between Taylor and Wendy last season, and now they're thrust into working together."

Season 5 is also introducing two new characters. Corey Stoll (House of Cards) plays Mike Prince, a business titan who goes about his business in a very different way than Axe, and isn't afraid to step into conflict. "He's another character of incredible power and force," said showrunner Brian Koppelman. "He gets in the middle of the action with [Chuck and Axe] and upsets the power balance and the dynamic."

In addition, Julianna Margulies joins the cast as Catherine Brant, a Yale sociology professor who piques Chuck's interest. "She's also a bestselling author in the sex and relationships space, and she encounters Chuck in an interesting way," teased Levien. "She makes him question certain core beliefs that he has." Chuck is attracted to her not because she's brilliant, but because nothing fazes her. "His past sexual forays don't ruffle her feathers in the slightest," Margulies says. "In fact, she looks at it almost like a science project."

Billions can often echo the world around it, but do the showrunners use real-life inspiration to spin their tales? "All the characters in Billions are fictional creations," said Koppelman. "We do incredibly deep forensic research into the way people in these industries act and think and what they do. But we then invent the characters from the ground up. ... Sometimes what will happen is we'll shoot something, and then suddenly that'll happen in the news afterwards. [But] no, we just go from a place of character."

And fans, don't worry – the showrunner duo sees the show continuing on for a while. "We love making the show. It's completely inspiring to us, and we love our cast – they're so brilliant," enthused Levien. "We also have the ability to add these new players that we've always wanted to work with; that keeps it completely fresh and exciting. ... So we're of a mind to keep going."

Harley Quinn: Birds of Prey

(Action) Harley Quinn (Margot Robbie) and the Joker have split, and Harley now realizes there are quite a few people who want her dead. She joins forces with a who's who of other strong women, and together they fight for survival. Also stars Mary Elizabeth Winstead, Ewan McGregor (R, 1:49) Available Now

Make It A Movie Night! It is extremely violent, but fans of the DC Universe have this powerful addition to their landscape. Harley Quinn = girl power!

The Call of the Wild

(Adventure) In a film based on the legendary novel, John Thornton (Harrison Ford) heads to the Yukon to get away from people. When John meets Buck, a dog with a personality, their two journeys join together and the majestic environment surrounding them provides the backdrop in a struggle for survival. Also stars Karen Gillan, Cara Gee (PG. 1:40) Available Now

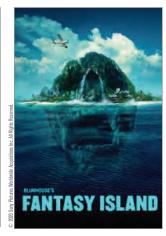

Make It A Movie Night! Harrison Ford, classic story and animated dog - it takes a couple of minutes to get into, but it's good family fun.

Emma.

(Comedy) Emma seems to have it all. She has money, is beautiful and amazingly clever, and works through her days growing up providing advice to all. But what about her own journey through misguided matches? Can she find her own romance? Anya Taylor-Joy, Johnny Flynn, Bill Nighy (PG, 2:04) Premieres May 19

Fantasy Island

(Horror) This is not your parents' Fantasy Island. Sure, Mr. Roarke (Michael Peña) is here, sure, there are fantasies to fulfill, but make no mistake - these dreams are brought to life in a horror film, as what seemed simple becomes very complicated. Also stars Lucy Hale, Maggie Q, Portia Doubleday (PG-13, 1:49) Premieres May 12

CRITIC PICK OF THE MONTH

Make It A Movie Night!

By remaking the classic film with a stalking angle, the filmmakers set up Elisabeth Moss to shine. In the role of Cecilia, Moss is the catalyst for the enjoyment of the film, as every expression on her face is vital to capturing viewers' attention and pulling us into the story. A truly creepy take on a classic tale for the modern world mixed with the occasional cheesy moment places viewers firmly on edge throughout their viewing. If you are a fan of the thriller genre, make sure you see this rendition of The Invisible Man.

It's my pick of the month.

Paul Hall is a nationally syndicated film critic and member of the Broadcast Film Critics Association (BFCA).

The Invisible Man

(Horror) Cecilia (Elisabeth Moss) tries to move on after the apparent suicide of her abusive ex-boyfriend, but it doesn't take long for her to believe he didn't really die and is instead invisible and still stalking her. Also stars Oliver Jackson-Cohen, Aldis Hodge (R, 2:04)

ACROSS & DOWN By Donna Pettman

DIRECTIONS

Rearrange the letters in each group to form a word. Place the words into the diagram so that the same words read both across and down. (The first word across is the same as the first word down and so on.) The letter groups are not necessarily placed next to the row of the diagram in which they go.

ALL DAY AND A NIGHT ORIGINAL FILM!

Netflix

Jahkor (Ashton Sanders, Moonlight) never wanted to be like his father (Jeffrey Wright, Westworld), and his father never wanted to see his son in prison. Yet somehow finding themselves together as inmates seemed inevitable. In an unlikely journey of selfdiscovery, Jahkor explores the dangerous world that unites them, hoping to help his newborn son escape a cycle that feels inescapable.

NEW SERIES!

Ryan Murphy's latest production for Netflix, which he co-created with lan Brennan and cowrote with Brennan and Janet Mock, is a limited series set in post-World War II Hollywood, where it follows a group of aspiring actors and filmmakers trying to make it no matter what the cost.

BLUE BLOODS SEASON FINALE! CBS, 10pm

Good news! This episode was always intended to be the final hour of the drama's 10th season. even though production on the New York City-based show shut down prematurely over the coronavirus pandemic. "It turned out to be a perfect season finale," star Tom Selleck promises, "since the requirement of a season finale is a big surprise. There's a good one." His Frank Reagan, police commissioner and patriarch, has a dilemma that "goes to the heart of who he is," Selleck teases. "It's a deeply personal and emotional story for him, but it has an impact on all the Reagans. I don't expect a dry eye in the house!"
