EDITOR'S NOTE

BEING THANKFUL

We screen a lot of new TV programming here, and thankfully we get a good variety of laughs and drama, with some compelling true stories part of that mix. Watching Ron Howard's film Rebuilding Paradise (see page 17) for this month's issue had my pulse racing and emotions in overdrive. The heartbreaking aftermath of losing everything combined with the uplifting stories of resilience moved me to tears and served as a reminder of how fortunate some of us truly are. With California continuing to be ravaged by fires and the South bracing for more hurricanes, it's good to reflect on how simple acts of kindness to those who are in need can go such a long way. Continue to count your blessings, and be kind to those around you.

Wishing you good health and happiness, always.

Happy viewing!

■ When Will “Survivor” Be Back?

I have watched but have not seen any notice about Survivor being canceled, or when it will come back! Do you know anything about this? – Louise

Unfortunately, this is the first time in two decades that “Survivor” won’t have a fall and most likely spring season. The crew wasn’t able to travel to Fiji to film (their permanent home) due to safety restrictions with COVID-19. Typically, “Survivor” films two seasons back to back, airing one season in fall and one in spring. Here’s hoping the crew can return to filming (usually April through June) and have a new season ready for us in fall of 2021. It’s a long wait for a fan favorite!

QUESTION OF THE MONTH:

If you could determine the storyline for one of your favorite TV shows, what would you do?

Email us at dishletters@ntvbmedia.com

■ Keep DIY Network As It Is!

In the September issue, I read that Chip and Joanna Gaines will be taking over DIY Network with their new Magnolia Network. I want to write a letter saying that I watch the DIY Network more than any other network. I love to watch Insane Pools, Maine Cabin Masters, Building Off the Grid and Barnyard Builders. They are going to ruin the DIY Network. Why must they change it? I hope that my letter will be published to show support for the DIY Network. – William

The network is actually a joint venture with Chip and Joanna Gaines and

Survivor
host Jeff
Probst

Discovery Networks (who owns DIY), so don't panic yet, as they haven't announced what or if any of the series from DIY will carry over. We do know they are bringing back “Fixer Upper,” which ran for five seasons before airing its final episode in April 2018. Magnolia Network also announced some of the programming in production and/or development currently, which includes: “Growing Floret,” “Home on the Road With JOHNNYSWIM,” “deVOL Kitchens” (f.k.a. “Bespoke Kitchens”), “Family Dinner,” “Restoration Road With Clint Harp,” “The Fieldhouse,” “Super Dad,” “Home Work,” “The Lost Kitchen” and “Inn the Works.”

■ Looking For “Billions”

Can you tell me the status of Billions on Showtime? Is that coming back soon? – Jerry Showtime has picked up a sixth season of the drama starring Paul Giamatti and Damian Lewis. The network has confirmed that Season 5 of “Billions” will return with five new episodes in 2021, with Season 6 to follow. Also to note, Corey Stoll (“House of Cards”), who joined as Mike Prince in Season 5, will be a series regular for Season 6.

■ Why Are Movies Missing?

There seems to be many movies missing from your movie description section each month. A few examples recently include Last Holiday on TNT, Con Air on AMC, Yolanda and the Thief on TCM and Baywatch on FXX. This is one of your main selling points. Please correct this problem. – Mark

Thanks for your note, Mark. When we reach capacity in our movie section due to space, we have to edit the file down. When editing, we remove one-star movies or movies airing overnight (2am to 6am). We are exploring other options to expand the section to include the growing number of titles. This month, you'll see the section has more pages because November only has 30 calendar days, so we don't need as many daily listings pages. You can also sign up for our free digital issue, which includes a HUGE movie section – longer movie descriptions, more actors listed, all networks included. If you have a subscription to our print magazine, you get the digital issue for free. To do this go to: ondishmag.com/all-access

■ Congratulations!

Well, we didn't run a READER REWARDS (see page 3) in our September issue due to it being our special FALL TV PREVIEW edition, so no news to report on winners. Next month will feature the October winner.

■ Delivery/Replacement Policy

We mail each issue of your magazine in enough time for it to arrive by the first of the month according to what is required by the United States Postal Service standards for delivery. If your magazine does not arrive in the first few days of the month, you must contact us within 15 days (i.e., by Nov. 15) to request a replacement copy. Email us at dishletters@ntvbmedia.com (include your name and address), call 1-888-333-5388, or write us at OnDISH Magazine, 9275 N. 49th St., Suite 100, Brown Deer, WI 53223.

SUPERNATURAL

The Winchester Brothers' Journey Comes To A Close As Long-Running CW Hit Ends. By Jeff Pfeiffer

For a long time, whenever The CW President Mark Pedowitz would be asked at Television Critics Association press tour conferences whether his network's seemingly eternal hit drama Supernatural had plans to conclude, Pedowitz would usually offer a response to the effect of, "When they are ready to stop, we will stop." By "they," he was referring to Jared Padalecki and Jensen Ackles, who portray the series' core characters Sam and Dean Winchester.

There were many years of this response before the inevitable finally happened last year, when the stars and The CW did decide that it was time to bring Supernatural to a close. Passionate fans got a little reprieve from having to say goodbye when the pandemic shut down production on the hit horror/fantasy/drama's final few episodes, which were originally planned to air this past spring. Now, after 15 seasons, Supernatural will air its final episode this month (Nov. 19).

A cornerstone program for The CW over the past decade and a half, Supernatural actually predates its longtime home — its first season, in 2005-06, aired on the now defunct The WB before that network was combined with UPN to form The CW in 2006.

The CW will move on, of course, as will Supernatural's stars. Padalecki's next project is in just a few months, when he will return to The CW to headline the new series Walker, a reimagining of Chuck Norris' Walker, Texas Ranger, starting in January.

As for Supernatural's final episode, details are understandably being kept under wraps, but you can be assured that Padalecki and Ackles, and their show's creative team, will have something to satisfy viewers who have followed the Winchester brothers for 15 years.

Prior to watching the boys go off into the sunset, fans can also tune in to an hourlong retrospective special called Supernatural: The Long Road Home, which immediately precedes the finale.

ELECTION DAY 2020

America will either reelect incumbent Republican President Donald Trump or send his Democratic challenger Joe Biden to the White House — and will also choose various legislators at the federal, state and local levels — on Tuesday, Nov. 3. Most of the networks you would expect will feature extended coverage, like ABC, CBS, CNN, FOX, FOX News Channel, MSNBC, NBC and PBS. Full details on each network's plans were not available at presstime. One thing to be aware of is that winners may not necessarily be officially determined by the end of Nov. 3. Due to the pandemic, a lot of people were expected to submit absentee ballots by mail. In a number of states, these ballots cannot begin to be counted until Election Day, so that potentially leaves a lot of votes for election officials to sort through beginning on Nov. 3. — Jeff Pfeiffer

5 Questions

With WHITNEY ROSE of
"The Real Housewives Of Salt Lake City"

By Taylor Neumann

Bravo is expanding its popular franchise with its newest offering, The Real Housewives of Salt Lake City (premiering Nov. 11). Salt Lake City may seem like an interesting choice, but it offers scenic landscapes, lots of shopping and ... Mormons? That's right, the new series will offer a look at what it's like living inside the religion, but it will also examine what it's like to live outside of it. New Housewife Whitney Rose was born into Mormonism, but left the faith over a decade ago. Fun fact: She's actually second cousins with her costar, Heather Gay.

"As a Housewives fan, I truly think Salt Lake City is going to be the best yet," said Rose. "And that's not just because I'm on it or I live here — it really is different, it's unique, it dives into deeper issues, deeper topics. And we have a lot of fun in Salt Lake City, too, so I think that's going to shock the world." We interrupted some of that fun for Rose's take on our "5 Questions."

1 What are three things you need to have in your fridge or pantry?
That is hard. I would say cheese, wine and probably ice cream bars.

2 What are some of your current favorite TV shows?

Well, of course, the Real Housewives. I've been a fan of the Housewives for a very long time. I love Beverly Hills and New York City. ... Now that I'm in this world, I have started to meet some of the Housewives, so it's been really fun for me, and just, starting as a fan to becoming a Housewife has been an incredible journey for me. I still can't believe I'm here. But I am [also] rewatching, for the third time, Sons of Anarchy.

3 What is your most prized possession that you will never, ever get rid of?

Probably my journals from my childhood. In the Mormon religion, we were taught to journal, and it's a common practice when you're young, so I love to go back and reread what I thought was a big deal when I was 10 or 11.

4 What movie can you watch over and over?

That's easy, probably Dirty Dancing with Jennifer Grey and Patrick Swayze. I mean, I can't even count how many times I've watched that movie. I grew up as a dancer, so I love dance shows and dance movies.

5 What's been the best part about joining the Real Housewives franchise?

It's such a cool adventure, and it's unlike any experience that I've ever had. It's been lots of highs, lots of lows, but overall, it's been an incredible journey, and I have learned so much about myself, and my friends, and my family. I would just say the growth and excitement has been incredible.

Tuned In To You.

Tuned In To You

DISH retailers across the nation bring to life the company's commitment to best-in-class customer service and dedication to serving local communities each day. The DISH Cares Ambassador of the Quarter Award recognizes retailers who go above and beyond to exemplify the ideals of DISH Cares, DISH's corporate citizenship program. Recently, two retailers were honored for the unique ways they gave back to their local communities in the first half of 2020.

The first is Satélite Latino, a DISH Premier Retailer who services the Santa Maria, California, area.

Owner Rene Solis is well-known in his community for making it a priority to give back. After meeting with the local Salvation Army representatives to find out how his business could best help, his team has been collecting canned goods and clothing in his store for the past year and a half. Satélite Latino has already donated 100+ pounds of items this year. The local business also sponsored an annual donation drive on a local radio station, "La Ley 100.3," resulting in hundreds of dollars raised for St. Jude.

The second Ambassador of the Quarter honoree for 2020 is Microcom, a DISH Premier Local Retailer with locations in Alaska, Hawaii and northern Idaho. Microcom consistently uses their wide sphere of influence to create opportunities and serve very diverse communities in numerous ways. These included over 17 donation drives and volunteering and fundraising initiatives during the summer months.

Most notably, Microcom's Hilo, Hawaii, team found multiple ways to support groups affected by COVID-19. The team created 85 Mother's Day cards for nurses working in a local hospital. The same team also donated 52 masks to the fifth grade graduating class' commencement ceremony at Mountain View Elementary, a local school with a significant number of students experiencing homelessness.

Microcom's Alaska-based team supports an organization called Seeds of Change, which employs and empowers local youth, promoting self-reliance and community involvement, to grow and sell fresh produce. Microcom donated lunch on a weekly basis for the Seeds of Change youth staff during the month of April. Microcom is also continuing their efforts with "Kids Don't Float," a statewide injury-prevention program that was developed to address Alaska's high child and youth drowning rate.

These retailers are great examples of how small businesses are integral to supporting local communities. DISH is honored to celebrate our local retailers and the continued efforts they make to give back to the towns they are proud to call home. – Colleen Skells

How To Connect A New TV To Your DISH Service

By Colleen Skells

Cyber Monday is right around the corner, which means that many of us are probably going to splurge on a bigger and better TV to watch our DISH programming on. If you decide to get a new TV, look below for instructions to connect it so you can get back to watching your favorite shows – quickly!

STEP 1: Disconnect the video cables, typically either an HDMI cable or RCA cables, from your old TV. Leave the cables intact on your DISH receiver.

STEP 2: Get your new TV positioned where you want it in your room, and then plug it in.

STEP 3: Reattach the video cables from your receiver to the appropriate ports on your new TV.

STEP 4: Ensure your receiver is plugged in and powered on. You should see a green light on the front of your receiver indicating that it's on. If you don't, press the Power button on the front of your receiver.

STEP 5: Turn on your TV. If you don't see DISH programming, it's probably because your TV isn't tuned to the correct input. Repeatedly press the Input button on your TV's remote or on the TV itself until you see DISH programming. Once you get to the right input, write it down for future reference.

STEP 6: Program your DISH remote to work with your new TV. First, look at the front-left side of your receiver to identify the model you have.

If you have a Hopper, Joey or Wally:

- A) On your DISH remote, press the Home button twice or the Menu button once, depending on your model, to get to the Menu screen
- B) Select "Settings," and then "Remote Control"
- C) Select "TV," and then "TV Pairing Wizard"
- D) Follow the onscreen prompts to program your remote

If you have a VIP receiver:

- A) Go to mydish.com/remote-codes. Select your remote to expand the instructions. Select "three-digit remote control code" in step 2, and choose your remote from the list to get the appropriate code.
- B) Pointing your DISH remote at your TV, press and hold the TV button at the top until all four mode buttons light up
- C) Enter the three-digit code, and then press the # button along the lower right of your remote
- D) Press the Power button on your remote to ensure the remote is now working with your TV. If it isn't, make sure you have the right three-digit code, and then repeat steps B & C.

TIP: If you splurge on another device you'd like to operate with your DISH remote, select "Auxiliary Device" instead of "TV" in step C.

TIP: Did you get a 4K TV? Be sure you have a Hopper 3, as that DISH receiver is required in order to transmit 4K HDR programming to your TV. If you want to upgrade your receiver, hit us up by visiting mydish.com/chat or calling 1-800-333-DISH (3474).

Check out features of your Hopper, Joey or Wally by visiting youtube.com/user/dish or mydish.com/support.

"And Nicky Whelan, I've never worked with before, but we had such fun together. We just instantly became sisters, onscreen and off. And Robin Givens, who I worked with in God's Not Dead 2. I've always looked for the opportunity to work with her again. So she plays my boss."

Hart said Dear Christmas has a lot of fun Easter egg moments (those behind-the-scenes things to watch for) that relate to COVID-19 restrictions. Watch how you'll never see more than six cast members in a scene together at one time.

As for the holidays and holiday TV programming beginning earlier and earlier these days, Hart thinks people are ready for it.

"This year there's been so much turmoil and so many natural disasters. I think people look to the holidays as a moment of hope and of peace," she says. "I was a big fan of Shirley Temple, and it always reminds me of the Great Depression and how Shirley was the biggest box office draw because her little smile and her little tap dancing and her movies brought joy to people in such a hard time. People saved their money to go to the movies. It reminds me of that. It's these Christmas movies that just bring so much joy to people. They know there's going to be a happy ending. They know they're going to see some Christmas magic and they're going to get so much out of the season, even if it's just while they're baking cookies in the kitchen and watching TV, or sitting with their family at night to catch a special one with maybe a star that they love, or watching a classic that they enjoy. I think it's important to our sanity to have these Christmas movies to be able to escape our realities."

MOONBASE 8

Three Nobodies Seek To Slip The Surly Bonds Of Earth. By Ryan A. Berenz

They dream of one day living on the moon's Sea of Tranquility, but until then, they'll toil in a ramshackle compound in a sandy crater outside of Winslow, Arizona.

In Showtime's new six-episode comedy Moonbase 8, Robert "Cap" Caputo (John C. Reilly), Dr. Michael "Skip" Henai (Fred Armisen) and Professor Scott "Rook" Sloan (Tim Heidecker) aren't the physically fit, highly trained, fearless aviators archetypical of NASA's Gemini or Apollo programs. They're middle-aged schlubs whose only qualifications for the mission are successfully filling out the application.

The trio has been living, working and training in isolation for 200 days in the hope of getting called up for a launch to the moon. They pass the days conducting experiments of questionable scientific merit, performing household duties assigned to them by the chore wheel and eating dehydrated "beef-style stew." They must put on their spacesuits whenever they exit the base to receive a supply drop or scare off the occasional intruder rummaging through their recycling bin.

"Those suits are crazy," Reilly says. "They look very authentic, and I suppose you could use them for some kind of protection, but really they are costumes. We put these little fans in them, but being out there in the desert was brutal in those things. It actually made me realize the kind of commitment it really takes to live in one of those bases, because I don't know if you're familiar, but there's lots of bases just like that all over."

Say what now?

"There's one in Utah, there's one in Hawaii," Reilly says. Sure enough, NASA's Human Research Program funds bases like the Hawaii Space Exploration Analog and Simulation (HI-SEAS) to study people and technology in earthbound mimics of extraterrestrial habitats.

Although conceived as an absurdist comedy, Moonbase 8 took on a strange life-imitating-art turn since the show was filmed.

"The idea of a bunch of guys training for a moon mission seemed like setting the bar very low in a funny way," Reilly says. "It was so mundane. The moon has already been visited. All the sexy people are talking about Mars. SpaceX is completely talking about Mars. We thought it was really funny that these guys would be satisfied with just getting to the moon. But since we made the show, they've discovered that there's probably a good amount of ice on the moon, and

THE CREW OF MOONBASE 8

Robert "Cap" Caputo

(John C. Reilly) Once the proud owner of a scenic helicopter tour company in Hawaii, Caputo has fallen on hard times. He lost his business, his wife and his condo, and the city of Honolulu just booted his car. Caputo hopes that a moonshot will put his earthly life back in order. "I go up to the moon, I'm not a deadbeat dad. I go up to the moon, I'm a hero," he says.

Dr. Michael "Skip" Henai

(Fred Armisen) Moonbase 8's chief scientist, Henai wants to carry on the legacy of his father, an astronaut who led the design team for the original Apollo mission spacesuits. Henai attributes his intellect to "mostly genetics, a little education, also economics and wealth." He spends much of his time tending to the base's greenhouse and planting apple seeds in flower pots.

Professor Scott "Rook" Sloan

(Tim Heidecker) A former Phishhead and marijuana addict, Sloan has since been evangelized as a born-again Christian. Sloan and his wife, Sue, have a dozen children and one more on the way. Sloan says he was inspired to join the Moonbase program by his pastor. "My pastor told me it would be a good idea to help spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ out into the universe," Sloan says. Sue seems to be managing just fine without her husband. The young, attractive pastor has been helping her out a lot.

P-93 Lab Rat "Jeremy"

Unusually finicky for an experimental rodent, P-93 (a.k.a. Jeremy) dislikes cheese and will only eat shredded carrots (not the other kind).

suddenly there are at least four different countries that are trying to set up bases on the moon, including us. Both this pandemic quarantine mentality and a new ambition for the moon have come since we made the show, which makes us look like real prophets, but we were just trying to make them look like unambitious people."

With its plastic geodesic dome, greenhouse and metal shipping container, Moonbase 8 has a decidedly low-budget sci-fi movie appearance, but it might be the Taj Mahal of fake moon habitats. "When you look at the real ones, they're a lot [crappier] than our set, actually," Reilly says. "If you've ever seen a research station in Antarctica, it just looks like a collection of junk. Our base, even though it does look a little bit ramshackle and it's not terribly sophisticated, it looks a lot cleaner and well-designed than most of the actual bases."

And it has a kick-ass moon buggy. "That six-wheeled all-terrain vehicle was so fun to drive! Oh, my God!" Reilly says. "Those were invented probably in the '60s, and probably were invented to look like something that might go on the moon. But we bought one and painted it up in that nice white paint job. That thing flies, man! A lot of the scenes where I'm doing donuts and driving super recklessly, it wasn't too far from the truth."

Gemma
Arterton
as Sister
Clodagh

Sinfully Good

BLACK NARCISSUS

Haunting Mysteries
Awaken Forbidden
Desires In FX's New
Miniseries. By John Hogan

This lush (and lusty!) miniseries based on Rumer Godden's classic 1939 novel stars Gemma Arterton as Sister Clodagh, a role made famous by Deborah Kerr in an Oscar-winning 1947 movie adaptation of the same name. As Sister Clodagh and her order of Anglican nuns set up a convent in 1934 Nepal, she is awed by the stunning Himalayas ... and the handsome Mr. Dean (Alessandro Nivola), who oversees the land for the British Empire. Here Arterton explains why Black Narcissus is so sinfully good.

If you only have time to watch one more show, it should be Black Narcissus because ...
Gemma Arterton: It is unlike anything I have seen on television for a long time. It is quite classical, in the best sense. It is a psychological thriller that intoxicates you.

The reason I had to say yes to this series was ...

I read the book and was blown away. Amanda Coe's scripts honored it, whilst elaborating on some themes, bringing more depth. The setting, the story and the complexity of the characters completely transported me.

The character of Sister Clodagh resonated with me because ...

She is someone who used being a nun as an escape from her true self. I connected with her struggle to always be in control, to always succeed, whilst battling the wild, sensual person that she truly is.

You'll be glad to hear we don't ...

Shave our heads! At the time [the series is set], nuns shaved all their hair off. Luckily, we had an amazing hair and makeup designer, Nicole Stafford, who did wonders with bald caps and wigs.

Awards voters are definitely going to single out ...

How visually beautiful the miniseries is, from Kave Quinn's costumes and production design to the incredible Nepalese landscape.

We did our homework! For example ...

We visited an Anglican convent for research. The nuns in Black Narcissus are High Anglican, which, at the time, was very strict. The nuns weren't allowed to touch, weren't really allowed to let their gazes wander. I found the research of life in the order completely fascinating.

Filming on location in Nepal was ...

A blessing. It took us two days to reach the final destination, which was high up in the Himalayas. It really ran home what a leap of faith it would have been for these nuns to make that journey in 1934. It was one of the most beautiful places I have ever seen. I could really understand why the nuns are so shaken by the beauty and majesty of the place. It also gave the cast and crew a really bonding experience. You don't forget trips like that. It was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

This miniseries also stars Diana Rigg, Jim Broadbent, Alessandro Nivola, Aisling Franciosi and so many other talented actors. That was amazing because ...

I was truly very lucky to work with so many exceptional actors. Alessandro Nivola gives a really nuanced performance and I loved all of our scenes together. The same goes for Aisling Franciosi. Her Sister Ruth is a truly troubled soul. The scenes between Ruth and Clodagh are some of my favorites, as there is such a battle of wills at play, whilst at the same time a lot of vulnerability and pain. Aisling and Alessandro are such subtle and generous actors. Working with Diana Rigg and Jim Broadbent was a dream. When you are working with such exemplary actors, you can't help but up your game as a performer.

REBUILDING PARADISE

Ron Howard's Film Is A Moving Story Of Resilience. By Barb Oates

Ron Howard

It started as a beautiful fall day in Northern California. It was Nov. 8, 2018, and just two hours north of Sacramento sat the quintessential small town of Paradise, where residents were going about their normal business — kids were at school, shops were open, people were busy at their jobs. But the sky changed. Gusty winds and dry conditions coupled with sparks from a faulty power line ignited what would become the deadliest fire in California history. Director Ron Howard tells the terrifying, heartbreaking, yet hopeful, story of the residents of Paradise in his film Rebuilding Paradise.

The first 10 minutes of the film aren't easy to watch. The scenes play out like a pulse-pounding nightmare (which it was), as Howard uses raw footage shot by residents to take viewers into the heart of the town.

"It's probably the most harrowing sequence that I've ever been involved in, as a director," Howard said. "And you know, I didn't shoot or stage a frame of it."

As the sky turned black and "all sorts of stuff" started falling out of the sky, calls from residents started to flood emergency lines. Within about two hours the fire spread from 200 acres to 18,000 and engulfed the town. A frantic, massive evacuation left residents with little to no time to escape — many fled with only the clothes on their backs. In the end, 85 died in the fire, 50,000 people were displaced and close to 19,000 structures were burnt to the ground.

Howard's story, however, isn't one centered solely around the devastation; it's one that shares the community's difficult yet inspiring road to recovery.

"I've never experienced anything like what I witnessed there on the ground," Howard said about visiting Paradise about 10 days after the fire, a town in which his mother-in-law had lived the last four or five years of her life. "Being surrounded by that level of destruction really does take your breath away, and words, they don't suffice. And then conversations with the people who've just recently been through it are sobering and uncomfortable in the extreme. But one of the things that I found is that many people did want the catharsis of talking about it. They did want to share their videos with us. And when they began to recognize that we didn't want to make a film just about the crisis, we wanted to make a film about the people and what it was going to require to cope with this, whether it was leaving, staying, rebuilding, whatever it was. ... It was really a life experience for me, an eye-opener, and I'm grateful to have had the experience."

Riveting Thriller

ROADKILL

Hugh Laurie Battles Crime And Politics In PBS New Thriller.

By Kate Hahn

Look both ways before crossing your political opponents! In this slow-burn British thriller that's as fun to watch for the understated performances as it is for the plot twists, House's Hugh Laurie tries to keep from being run down by scandal as charismatic Peter Laurence, a conservative politician with working-class roots. Created and written by playwright and two-time Academy Award nominee David Hare (The Hours), Roadkill asks what happens when you embrace freedom and shun shame. You'll smile wryly at satirical one-liners, especially as uttered by this excellent cast, which includes Helen McCrory (Peaky Blinders) as the prime minister. Here Laurie tells us more on the series.

When we meet Peter, he's just won a libel suit against journalist Charmian Pepper [Sarah Greene, Dublin Murders] — but even his lawyer thinks he's guilty of accepting payments to help privatize the National Health Service. Why were you drawn to this role?

Hugh Laurie: I was intrigued by someone motivated by a picture of a future rather than the past. He finds the past a hindrance. Constant regret is not in his nature. He looks forward with a glad heart and thinks tomorrow can be better than yesterday if you approach it in the right frame of mind.

Do you share that quality?

I find it exhilarating to play because I'm not like that. I spend too much time looking backward, regretting or wondering whether I did the right thing or could have done better. At the end of every working day, I recriminate and analyze the mistakes I made rather than making decisions about the following day.

Peter could do with some more soul-searching. Even though he loves his family, he has hurt his wife [Saskia Reeves, Wolf Hall], who lied for him in court, as well as their two semi-estranged adult daughters [Ophelia Lovibond and Millie Brady].

Every now and then a degree of reflection and self-examination is called for. It is a dimension of a moral life. He has it — in a smaller degree.

Not enough for some people. One delicious aspect of watching is slowly realizing just how many in Peter's circle seem to be actively plotting against him. We never know whom to trust!

It's an amazing cast, and wonderful to watch them reveal themselves piece by piece rather than coming in with a trombone announcing themselves. It's fun and a challenge for an actor to allow the audience to decipher things rather than present it to them in bold, which is my instinct. I talk too loudly and gesture too much. I'll probably lose my British passport for that — it's un-English. [Laughs]

This must have been challenging because Peter doesn't give a lot away. How did you rein in your performance?

Whenever I was inclined to stray into something perhaps too demonstrative, David Hare and director Michael Keillor, an immensely refined and subtle thinker, were there to fire some volts through the dog collar, and I would just get a slight twitch and calm down.

VIRUS HUNTERS

The Race To Identify And Halt The Next Global Pandemic. By Jeff Pfeiffer

The COVID-19 pandemic has given people a new appreciation for medical workers on the front lines of treating people. Now, the Nat Geo special Virus Hunters will shed light on some other dedicated and brave experts across a variety of fields – from epidemiologists to ecologists to bat scientists and more – who are working around the clock and around the world to identify microorganisms that have the potential to explode into the next pandemic.

In Virus Hunters, National Geographic fellow/epidemiologist/ecologist Christopher Golden and ABC News foreign correspondent James Longman embark on an epic journey across continents to meet with the heroic scientists who are hoping to be able to remove even just one “domino” in the chain of events that could lead to another global outbreak. They join the urgent fieldwork of these virus hunters who are currently posted at the following potential hot zones: the United States, Liberia, Thailand and Turkey.

Virus Hunters
Nat Geo,
Sunday,
Nov. 1

The program includes stops to follow scientists in places like a bat cave in Turkey and at a chimpanzee refuge in Liberia. But while it may be easy for some to blame a virus on a bat or other creature, the experts are trying to ensure that a viral outbreak within an animal community is not also exacerbated by human behavior.

“The ways in which humans are impacting nearly every ecosystem around the world,” Golden says, “... these are having devastating impact, not only on people, but they’re also having it on wildlife, and when we are damaging wildlife and causing them further stress, it further creates these opportunities for viral transmission to occur.”

“The people who work in the field,” adds Jim Desmond, a wildlife veterinarian featured in the special, “they’re trying to mitigate the risks. So, by changing human behavior that creates further risk of these pandemics, these risks from wildlife, we can better protect the people.”

THE REAGANS

Four-Part Series

What Happened Behind The Walls Of The Reagan White House? By Ryan A. Berenz

The presidency of Ronald Reagan from 1981-89 is often fondly remembered for the peaceful resolution to the Iran hostage crisis, a booming economy, a victory in the Cold War, and a renewed sense of national pride and optimism. Reagan was the charismatic “great communicator,” and he and first lady Nancy formed the ultimate power couple. While Nancy was publicly encouraging Americans to Just Say No to drugs, behind the scenes she was viewed by many as an interloper, wielding undue influence in her husband’s policy decisions. In 1988, it was revealed Nancy had been consulting an astrologer to help plan the president’s activities. Director Matt Tyrnauer (Valentino: The Last Emperor) revisits the Reagan White House in the four-part documentary series The Reagans, which examines the little-known details of the Reagans’ ascent to the nation’s highest office, Nancy’s central role in her husband’s career, and how President Reagan’s conservative agenda has shaped the current state of American politics.

RISE OF THE NAZIS

A Riveting Look At Hitler's Ascent.

By Ileana Rudolph

How, in less than four years, did Germany turn from a liberal state into a murderous dictatorship that would soon set the world ablaze? Focused on the pivotal period between 1930 and 1934, this three-part documentary – as gripping as any fictional thriller – aims “to show how a democracy can unravel,” says executive producer Julian Jones, and “to help viewers understand what may have motivated the key players’ actions and beliefs.” This cautionary tale is told via astute historians (one notes that a general’s name aptly translates as “to sneak” or “to creep”), telling re-creations and a judicious use of chilling archival footage. In the opener, backroom deals among politicians of the Reich, including World War I hero President Paul von Hindenburg, open the door to onetime fringe player Adolf Hitler gaining power as chancellor, and heroic attorney Hans Litten tries to expose the thuggery of the Nazi movement. Later, we see how Hitler brings all of Germany under Nazi control. Says Jones: “We should not take democracy for granted. It’s important we learn from this period of history so we can stop it from ever happening again.”

BELUSHI

New Documentary Captures The Essence Of A Comedy

Icon. By Jeff Pfeiffer

History is filled with examples of artists whose intense drive to create has simultaneously given the world incredible and lasting works while also causing those artists to flame out at a young age, often through self-destructive behavior.

That was the case with John Belushi, who died from a drug overdose in 1982 at age 33, but who by that point had already left behind a legacy of iconic comedic acting and writing, notably from his stint as a founding member of Saturday Night Live and through his beloved performances in classic comedy movies like National Lampoon's Animal House (1978) and The Blues Brothers (1980). That legacy, and the life of the man who created it, is the subject of Belushi, a feature documentary from acclaimed filmmaker R.J. Cutler.

Told using previously unheard audiotapes, Belushi examines its subject's life through the words of his collaborators, friends and family. This includes his former SNL colleagues like Dan Aykroyd (who also teamed with Belushi on the big screen), Lorne Michaels, Jane Curtin and Chevy Chase, as well as other talents who knew him, like Carrie Fisher, Harold Ramis, Penny Marshall and Ivan Reitman. Personal insights come from John's brother Jim Belushi, and from John's high school sweetheart and, later, wife, Judy Belushi.

Covering everything from Belushi's early years growing up in Wheaton, Illinois, to his time at Chicago's Second City theater and on Saturday Night Live, to his subsequent movie fame and more, this film captures the complicated and singular essence of another icon who unfortunately left us too soon.

BIG SKY

Beautiful Montana Vistas Belie A Dark Story. By Taylor Neumann

David E. Kelley is one of the biggest names in television, with a roster of shows behind him like The Practice, Boston Legal and Big Little Lies. His newest series on ABC, Big Sky, promises all of the deep character development and plot-driven stories he's shown off in the past.

It follows a private detective agency in Montana made up of Cassie Dewell (Kylie Bunbury) and Cody Hoyt (Ryan Phillippe) who then join forces with Cody's estranged wife and ex-cop Jenny Hoyt (Katheryn Winnick) to investigate the disappearance of two sisters kidnapped by a truck driver on a remote highway. This triangle promises a lot of drama and frustration as they attempt to track down the girls – even discovering that the sisters aren't the only girls who have disappeared in the area, and more may be coming.

The series is a thriller based on the book The Highway and its sequels by C.J. Box, which only hint at the picturesque details of Montana that the show is able to incorporate. "This show and the visuals of this show and the vista of the show and C.J. Box's novels are so landscape-dependent that they are going to be breathtaking to watch as much as they are breathtaking in the thriller aspects of the show," explained John Carroll Lynch, who plays Rick Legarski, a highway patrolman who gets in the way of the investigation by the main trio.

"When we set about adapting [the book], the biggest challenge for me was to be able to deliver what the book did, and that is the tension, the thrill, the drama, the relational equations of the characters, which were rich and profound at times, and then the sense of escapism," said creator Kelley. "I'm hoping we will be able to deliver that sense of fun, drama and escapism to them."

No matter what the show has in store for audiences, it promises to be electrifying. "As the scripts keep pouring in – we've got five already – we're all like, 'Holy smokes. Did you read that? Do you know what's happening?'" Winnick exclaimed. "Because it's just we're all on the edge of our seats, kind of just turning our pages. And I think that the audience is going to be so ecstatic, because there's so many unexpected turns and twists, and these characters are so rich and dynamic that I'm super excited about it."

THE GOOD DOCTOR

The Hit Medical Drama
Returns With A Timely
Focus. By Jeff Pfeiffer

The Good
Doctor
ABC,
Mondays
beginning
Nov. 2

"How do you heal a world turned upside down?" reads the tagline for a poster promoting Season 4 of ABC's hit medical drama The Good Doctor. It's a question that real-world medical workers are certainly dealing with amid the ongoing COVID-19 crisis, and this fictional show's staff will also confront.

"[It was] important for us to touch on the coronavirus," says Freddie Highmore, who is back in his Golden Globe-nominated role as autistic savant surgical resident Shaun Murphy. "Not just [because] we are a show that seeks to reflect the reality that we're living in, but also it felt like a moment to pay tribute in our own way to the real medical professionals who continue to put their lives at risk. And I think we'd be doing a disservice to them to not want to show our thanks, I guess, and draw attention to the realities of the world in this moment. ... But at the same time, it's not a show that will singularly be focused on that."

This season, the young doctor is already facing other major challenges outside of his normal comfort zone, including being a boss for the first time.

"There are new residents who are going to be coming in," Highmore explains, "who Shaun is responsible for and has to teach and take under his wing. And, of course, he can provide great medical insight to them, but how will he be in terms of the more practical matters and the patient/doctor relationships? So that's something that I'm excited to see, [him] taking responsibility for others."

Shaun also has new personal responsibilities in his life; at the end of Season 3, he and Lea (Paige Spara) were on their way to being a couple again after sharing a kiss.

"I feel like the biggest challenge between [Shaun] and Lea," Highmore says, "will be the fact that they're embarking on this new relationship, but at the same time are unable to physically be together, which I think is an issue that so many of us have had to deal with, whether it's a romantic relationship or another close relationship, over the last few months. And so I think, as it was — and is — a challenge for everyone, now it will be for him."

Shaun has had some experience in this, though, even if to a lesser degree. A Season 2 episode of The Good Doctor focused on a viral outbreak putting the hospital staff into quarantine, which caused Shaun great anxiety. Perhaps he has remembered coping mechanisms from that event?

"I think Shaun has definitely learned and changed and grown as a person and as a doctor since he began at the hospital, as we all have," Highmore offers. "And certainly he will have learnt lessons from that initial quarantine and viral outbreak that we had in Season 2."

"The thing that he'll probably most struggle with, in this situation, is just the constantly evolving nature of the coronavirus, especially during those early days when so little was known about it. I think that's usually been one of Shaun's weaknesses: He's always incredibly well-prepared. He knows his textbooks inside out. But when he's faced with a problem that is potentially new and different, that can prove challenging."

THIS IS US

Broken Hearts & Family. By Barb Oates

It was a turbulent and unsettling close to This Is Us Season 4 as horrible words were exchanged between Pearson brothers Randall (Sterling K. Brown) and Kevin (Justin Hartley), over their mom Rebecca (Mandy Moore) sharing she would be moving to St. Louis to start a nine-month clinical trial for Alzheimer's. At least things looked slightly positive for their sister Kate (Chrissy Metz) and her husband Toby (Chris Sullivan), who remained committed to trying to be the best parents they could be to their blind son Jack. We caught up with Sullivan, who became a first-time father himself this summer, to get the scoop on what's in store for Season 5.

What can you share with us about Season 5 for Kate and Toby? How does Toby work on being a better dad to Jack and potentially another child?

Chris Sullivan: Being a "better dad" is such an ever-evolving process for Toby. I think we are all doing the best we can with the tools we have and Toby is always learning and collecting more tools, so I think it's going to be fun to watch him evolve.

You welcomed your first son, Bear, this summer. How's it been being a real-life daddy now?

Bear Maxwell is one of the most curious creatures I have ever encountered. He's a real upbeat fella. He eats well. He sleeps well (for now). I'm really excited to have the opportunity to get to know him and to watch him grow. [My wife] Rachel and I are floating around on this cloud of exhaustion and fulfillment. It's an all-natural, 100% biological high. I should not be operating heavy machinery.

Writer Dan Fogelman is so brilliant in weaving everyone's stories together and leaving you stunned and/or an emotional wreck at the end of almost every episode. When you get your script, what's your process?

I read the script by myself first, to soak it all up. Then I share all the juicy details with Rachel. I usually sit down next to Chrissy on set and we have the "Can you BELIEVE THIS?!" conversation.

What's been the episode that's moved you the most to date and why?

I think the recent episode, where Randall faces the intruder in his house and starts to face his anxiety around keeping his family safe, has hit me HARD, in retrospect. With a new baby in the house, I've been extra concerned with everyone's safety and security.

On a personal note, could you give us an update on your music? Still working with Mandy's husband Taylor? Any of your music in upcoming episodes?

We have just announced that we will release my debut record as Joseph The Spouse on Nov. 19. The record is called Six Feet From Under and it was cowritten and produced by Dawes frontman (and Mandy Moore's husband) Taylor Goldsmith. He and I have formed an amazing friendship that has spilled over into this very fulfilling creative collaboration. The album is packed with great songs and, yeah, hopefully they will be able to find a spot for one on the show. Time will tell. That would be a dream come true.

LAW & ORDER: SPECIAL VICTIMS UNIT

Record-Setting Series Keeps On Keeping On. By Ileana Rudolph

What a difference six months make: New York is "a city struggling to return from a harrowing pandemic and months of demonstrations and political fallout after George Floyd ... a city that has lost faith in the NYPD and the DA's office," Law & Order: SVU executive producer Warren Leight says. The drama's 22nd season opens with an assault in Central Park that "quickly turns into a racially volatile situation, and [the unit] confronts how their own racial bias affects their judgment." After a case about domestic violence, Episode 3 turns to what happens after extended social isolation and quarantine due to COVID-19 — or, says Leight, "how close people get to their breaking points." On the bright side, after 10 years apart, onetime SVU detective Elliot Stabler (Christopher Meloni) visits his former partner, now-captain Olivia Benson (Mariska Hargitay), as a lead-up to Meloni's 2021 spinoff, Law & Order: Organized Crime. Happily for fans, there's even more nostalgia in the offing. Says Leight: "We hope to bring back some [more] past regulars this season."

CHICAGO P.D.

Possible trouble for the go-their-own-way Intelligence Unit in Season 8 comes with new Deputy Superintendent Samantha Miller (Nicole Ari Parker), who arrives in Chicago with an intense police reform agenda, in a story inspired by the country's current movement. "Miller wants to abolish the 'warrior cop' mentality and help Hank Voight [Jason Beghe] and Intelligence adapt to the new reality," says executive producer Rick Eid. "She views Intelligence as integral in this mission. If she can change Voight, the rest of the police force will follow." Facing hostility from the community and scrutiny from his bosses, Voight must assess whether, indeed, "he's part of the problem or part of the solution." At least he has his team back. While the unit lost undercover specialist Vanessa Rojas (Lisbeth Chavez) at the end of last season, Detective Hailey Upton (Tracy Spiridakos) has returned from her detail with the FBI.

MORE HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE SHOWRUNNER:

The season picks up with ...

Rick Eid: A brief jump in time. We open the show a month or so after the Season 7 finale and inhabit the world as it currently exists, more or less.

New this season will be ...

The approach Intelligence takes to apprehend Chicago's most dangerous criminals. The world has obviously changed since last season's finale. The way Intelligence conducts its business will change as well.

Fans will be excited to know ...

Nicole Ari Parker is joining the show as a recurring guest star. Her mission is to help reform CPD. In particular, she wants to help Voight and Intelligence adapt to the new, more progressive regulations, but she will not tolerate breaches of guidelines or protocols. The era of cowboy cops running amok in Chicago is now officially over.

One of the best storylines this season involves ...

Burgess, but I don't want to spoil it. Let's just say that her life will change dramatically this year. For the better.

GREY'S ANATOMY

TV's longest-running primetime medical show opens its 17th season with a double timeline: one that finds the doctors of Grey Sloan Memorial facing the COVID-19 pandemic, the other flashing back to where we left them last spring. "Our goal this year is to reflect the reality of the medical community while finding ways to have humor and joy, romance and sex," says executive producer Krista Vernoff. "While the pandemic impacts the hospital in really intense ways, we also need to provide some relief and comfort."

Chief of general surgery Meredith Grey (Ellen Pompeo) "is deep in the work that doctors in this country are doing right now, which is trying hard to save the lives of people who have COVID," Vernoff previews. So the date that sexy Irish pediatric surgeon Cormac Hayes (Richard Flood) asked her out on at the end of last season will have to wait. We'll also learn the fate of Meredith's ex, chief resident Andrew DeLuca (Giacomo Gianniotti), who in the finale was in the throes of a bipolar breakdown and finally accepted Meredith's offer to help him.

Cardiothoracic surgeon Maggie Pierce (Kelly McCreary) had a tough year, breaking up with beau Jackson Avery (Jesse Williams) and losing her cousin on the operating table. However, there's a new light in her life: Winston Ndugu (new cast member Anthony Hill), a charming former colleague she reconnected with at a medical conference.

And co-head of cardiothoracic surgery Teddy Altman (Kim Raver) and trauma chief Owen Hunt (Kevin McKidd) are both wrecked, and Vernoff says, "We're playing that story through in dramatic fashion."

Was Tiger Woods' 2019 Masters win the greatest career comeback in sports history?

Autumn At Augusta

A Tradition Unlike Any Other In A Year Unlike Any Other. By Ryan A. Berenz

For the first time in its long, storied history, the Masters will be played in the fall.

The COVID-19 pandemic forced the postponement of golf's first major of the year, which is traditionally played in April. The Masters will now be the final major of 2020 when it takes place Nov. 12-15 at Augusta National Golf Club. ESPN and CBS televise.

It's been 19 months since Tiger Woods accomplished one of the greatest comebacks in sports history by winning his fifth green jacket and his 15th career major championship, bringing him closer to Jack Nicklaus' record 18 major wins. Since his previous major win at the 2008 U.S. Open, Woods had experienced a series of personal embarrassments and a nagging back injury that required multiple surgeries. Many wondered if Woods was finished as a serious contender, but he silenced doubters with a final-round rise up the leaderboard and a 1-stroke win at golf's most prestigious event.

"It was an extraordinary thing to see – being what he was, then to descend to the depths that he went to, and overcoming the injury that he has," recalls Golf Channel's

David Feherty, who worked 19 Masters tournaments as a broadcaster for CBS. "People don't place enough emphasis on that injury and how debilitating it is for a golfer. Four back surgeries. It's an astonishing physical achievement, apart from the obvious mental strength that's involved and desire, and everything that goes along with a comeback like that, which might be unparalleled in the history of sports – certainly in the history of golf. To have been at that height and to descend to those depths and get back, it's just such a measure of the man. It really is an incredible strength of character."

Woods has struggled in majors since that win. He failed to make the cut in three of them and his highest finish was a tie for 21st in last year's U.S. Open. His title will be tough to defend against the likes of Dustin Johnson, Jon Rahm, Justin Thomas, Rory McIlroy, PGA Championship winner Collin Morikawa and U.S. Open champion Bryson DeChambeau.

Famed Augusta National won't look the same with its fall foliage, and there will be no patrons or guests in attendance, but that one of the great events in sports will still take place in an extraordinarily difficult year is something to be grateful for indeed.

CRITIC PICK OF THE MONTH

Make It A Movie Night!

This film will scare you psychologically more so than having you jump in your seat as it features a terrifying concept that explores the past, present and future. Star Janelle Monáe alone makes this worth watching as she gives a range of emotions in a theme that is eminently relatable. Add in Jena Malone and Eric Lange, who create characters who are easy to dislike, and you find yourself a scary tale to settle in with for a long night.

It's my pick of the month.

Paul Hall is a nationally syndicated film critic and member of the Broadcast Film Critics Association (BFCA).

Antebellum

(Drama) Past and present collide in the story of a successful author who becomes trapped in a horrific tale of torture and terror that seems to span multiple generations. Janelle Monáe, Eric Lange, Jena Malone (R, 1:45) Premieres Nov. 3

ORIGINAL FILM!

Julia Rogers (Lexi Giovagnoli) is an uptight, hardworking real estate agent who has lost her Christmas spirit. When she's left to spend five days at a Christmas inn with her business competitor, Chad Everest (Travis Burns), in order to win over the badly needed listing, she discovers that they have more in common than they thought.

STAR OF THE MONTH: SHELLEY WINTERS: "SHELLEY IN THE '70S"

TCM 132, beginning at 8pm

CATCH A CLASSIC!

TCM's monthlong Monday night tribute to legendary actress Shelley Winters concludes tonight with several films she made during the 1970s – a decade during which she continued going strong with dramatic roles while also delivering campier performances in some exploitation films, for which she is also lovingly remembered. First up, Winters stars in the disaster movie classic The Poseidon Adventure (1972), giving a performance that earned her a Best Supporting Actress Oscar nomination and the only Golden Globe win of her career. Also tonight: the comedy/drama/Western Flap (1970); the horror film What's the Matter With Helen? (1971), which also stars Debbie Reynolds; the 1973 romantic comedy/drama Blume in Love; Roger Corman's low-budget film loosely based on Ma Barker, Bloody Mama (1970), with Winters in the title role; and the 1973 "blaxploitation" classic Cleopatra Jones, with Winters as an evil drug lord.
